Extent: 18 boxes – 9 linear feet

Language and Scripts: The collection is in English

Name of creators: The Portland Academy of Medicine

Administrative/Biographical History:

In the fall of 1906, two separate groups of doctors from throughout Oregon met to discuss the creation of an academy of medicine where doctors could meet to discuss advancements in the medical field.

On November 9, 1906, these two groups merged to establish the Portland Academy of Medicine located in Portland, Oregon. Modeled after the New York Academy of Medicine, the Portland Academy's goals focused on the investigation and promotion of the science and art of Medicine and the creation and maintenance of a public medical library located at the University of Oregon Medical School.

The two groups consisted of Drs. Simeon E. Josephi; Richard Nunn; Otto S. Binswanger; William Jones; George B. Story; A.J. (Andrew Jackson) Giesy; George F. Wilson; and John F. Dickson.

On November 16, 1906, the group invited 25 other doctors to be charter members of the Academy and to participate in the creation of the constitution and bylaws and the election of its first officers. Of the 25 invited doctors only 20 attended to become charter members and they were: Drs. A.J. (Andrew Jackson) Giesy, Otto S. Binswanger, Albert E. MacKay, James F. Bell, Richard Nunn, William Jones, Kenneth A.J. Mackenzie, Ernest F. Tucker, E.H. Parker, R. Kelly, C.H. Wheeler, F.B. Eaton, Simeon E. Josephi, Andrew Smith, A.C. Panton, J.D. Fenton, George F. Wilson, John F. Dickson, W.L. Wood, and William Boys. (Portland Academy of Medicine Records - 1/2)

Membership into the Academy was by invitation only and had candidates to be voted in before they were accepted. The members of the Academy were known as Fellows and were split into four categories: Active, Senior, Honorary, and Non-resident. Each category paid a different dues fee.

The Senior fellows did not pay dues and this status was only granted if the fellow had been active for over 20 years. Non-resident status was granted to doctors who did not live near the city of Portland. These fellows could be located anywhere within the state of Oregon or out of state. Many of the fellows in the academy were notable doctors at the University of Oregon Medical School, which is now the Oregon Health & Science University.

One third of the membership dues supported the purchasing of books and publications for the Medical School Library. The Academy also provided honoraria for invited guest lecturers, prominent local and international doctors, to speak at their meetings. In the 1940's the Academy created the Medical Research Foundation, which would provide funding grants for the exploration and advancement of medical research.
