Biography - Historical Note

March 1958 Report to the Alumni (v.9, no.3):

"Charles Norris enters private work" "The University of Oregon Medical School's first full-time photographer Charles F. Norris, 51, resigned this month to enter private business. An early pioneer in medical photography, 'Charlie' was well known by a host of faculty members and students at the UOMS since he first stepped on the campus in September 1931.... In 1940, Charlie married the former Thelma Lehman, secretary to Elnora Thompson.... For a number of years, the Norris' have conducted a limited retail nursery business in Portland, specializing in rhododendrons, azaleas, and native plants. They plan to enlarge the business and devote full time to it."

Scope and Contents

This collection consists of photographs of the University of Oregon Medical School, taken by Charles F. Norris. It includes photographs of administrators, doctors, students and staff, physical plant workers, nurses, technicians, landscapers, architects and others. Also included are group pictures such as class photographs and groups in formal and informal settings. There are photographs showing the construction of the Library Building in 1939 and the construction of other buildings on campus. Accompanying these photographs is a brochure of the dedication of the Library and Auditorium, June 7, 1940. Inserted between pages 44 and 45 is a letter from Dr. Dillehunt to Dr. Josephi dated 1911. The materials date from ca. 1915[?] - ca.1960. The photographs were originally arranged in a scrapbook. During processing the photographs were photocopied on the original pages to preserve the original order. The photographs could not be removed from the pages due to the glue and arrangement of the photographs. The pages were removed from the scrapbook, labeled, sleeved and then stored in acid-free boxes.
