

After-Hours Study Space Policy

The OHSU Library provides a secure study space to OHSU students, faculty and staff for use when the Library is closed.

- The After-Hours Study Space is for the use of OHSU students, faculty, and staff with OHSU ID only.
- Public Safety regularly monitors the space.
- An OHSU ID swipe on the 2nd or 4th floor external doors is required to enter the BICC building after-hours.
- An OHSU ID swipe at the 4th floor Library door is required to enter or exit the After-Hours Study Space. Access through the 4th floor door is only available when the Library is closed.
- All other floors of the Library are inaccessible after-hours.
- Users should respect the educational needs, rights and privacy of others and show consideration for the Library as a learning space and as outlined in the Library's Rules of Conduct.
- Misuse of OHSU ID to access the space will be referred to Public Safety.

Consequences for violating the After-Hours Study Space Policy

Persons who violate these or Oregon Health & Science University Rules of Conduct may be asked by Public Safety to modify their behavior or leave the building.
