ONPRC and VGTI Staff

LOANSOME DOC
Library service from your desktop

What is Loansome Doc?
Loansome Doc is a method for requesting full-text journal articles directly from PubMed from the convenience of your computer. You can request articles that are available in the Primate Center Library and those that must be obtained through inter-library loan.

How does it work?
After performing a search on PubMed (www.pubmed.gov), click on the box next to the articles you want. Then click the ORDER box and it will prompt you through both the registration and ordering process. The library identifier code is ORUORP. Your request will be automatically sent to the Primate Center Library. We will either fill the request here or forward it to another library. For articles and books not found on PubMed, you can email the request to the Primate Center Library.

Who can use Loansome Doc?
All ONPRC and VGTI employees are eligible to use Loansome Doc. The Primate Center Library will serve as the Ordering Library. On-line registration is required.

How will my documents be delivered?
Delivery methods currently available are: Electronic delivery, campus mail, US mail, fax, and pickup.

Questions? Ask a librarian or:

ISABEL MCDONALD LIBRARY
OREGON NATIONAL PRIMATE RESEARCH CENTER
505 NW 185TH AVE
PHONE: (503) 690-5309
FAX: (503) 690-5243
EMAIL: onprc@ohsu.edu