Any account of the 2011-2012 fiscal year must begin with the October 2011 groundbreaking of the new OHSU School of Dentistry facility on Portland’s South Waterfront, one of the most significant moments in the school’s 113-year history.

The elusive dream of a new dental building – nearly 20 years in the making – was realized only through the generous leadership of alumni, friends, and corporate partners. Slated to open in less than two years, the facility will transform the delivery of dental education in Oregon and provide the training ground for the next generation of dental professionals.

This report is a collective “thank you” to alumni and friends who, in so many ways, supported the dental school in the landmark months between July 1, 2011 and June 30, 2012. Whether it was a gift to the new building, attendance at a reunion or continuing dental education conference, making calls at the phonathon, volunteerism on the Alumni Association board of directors, or representing the school at meetings around the country, our alumni continued to demonstrate their strong allegiance to the school and its faculty, staff, and students.

For dental students, the new building is one reason they selected OHSU for their education.

"I had been to the school four years ago to look around and loved the program, but the building was old," said first-year dental student Estrellita Gutierrez, a Medford, Ore., native from Southern Oregon University. "When I came to visit again and heard about the new building it gave me the push to say 'yes' to OHSU."

Alex Louie, a first-year dental student from San Francisco agreed. "The new, large-sized operatories that will be in the new building look really nice from the photos we've seen. They're going to be better for patients and more realistic for us. Having a modern look and an updated school will be one of the best things about attending OHSU."

The Class of 2016 will be among the first students to graduate from the new building, which topped out in December. The "skin" – windows and metal – is now visible on parts of the OHSU/OUS Collaborative Life Sciences Building's North Tower, where the new dental school is located. A model of the operatories that will be in the new building is now in use in the current predoctoral clinic, in the endodontology bay.

"Without a doubt, our dental community will be enormously proud of this new building that advances our program many years ahead of most dental schools in the country," said Dean Emeritus Jack Clinton, D.M.D. '64. "We are so delighted to watch this building going up and are grateful to our alumni and friends for everything they've done in making it happen. Thank you for helping to make this a truly memorable year!"
From the Dean

A little more than a year ago, the first shovels broke ground on the OHSU/OUS Collaborative Life Sciences Building, which houses our new dental school. In December of 2012, the north side of the building, where we will be located come fall of 2014, topped out.

I am amazed at how much progress has been made on our new building in 14 months. The project has been on a very aggressive timeline from the start and I am happy to report that we remain on schedule and on budget.

Yes, we will move in the summer of 2014. Our dental students, staff, and faculty already have put countless hours into preparing for a move: everything from digitizing records to hiring new faculty for our integrated group practices to preparing our curriculum and planning for our new school-owned instrumentation management system.

A new dental school building is only possible with support from loyal alumni and donors such as yourselves. The $10 million gift from Bonnie and Gene, D.M.D. ’68, Skourtes, last June came at precisely the right moment for the school and proved the lynchpin for our whole new building effort. Once A-dec, Inc. and ODS Health stepped forward with their generous pledges shortly thereafter, we knew the longtime dream of a new facility not only could, but would become a reality.

With $31,208,926 in new building gifts as of Oct. 31, we are about two-thirds of the way toward our $43 million campaign goal. What a dramatic accomplishment in one year!

You are truly amazing. You are coming through and we couldn’t have done it without you. Thank you for helping us to continue our great legacy of education, patient care, and research.

Gary Chiodo, D.M.D. ‘78, F.A.C.D.
OHSU School of Dentistry Interim Dean
chiodoga@ohsu.edu
From the Alumni Association President

No matter how many years ago you graduated from the OHSU School of Dentistry, or how far you now live from Portland, Ore. there is always a way to stay active with your alma mater, whether you attend a reunion, volunteer your time, or make a charitable gift. As we close the traditional time for year-end giving, I’d like to touch on the subject of philanthropic gifts.

If you’re like me, when you write a check to an organization, you want to know how your donation is being used. In the spirit of transparency, I’d like to tell you how some of the alumni contributions to the OHSU School of Dentistry were used during the 2011-2012 fiscal year.

New Building I hope you all know that a new dental school building is under construction on Portland’s South Waterfront and, in fact, that it is now halfway finished. I hope you also know that the dental school is charged with raising $43 million for this essential project. As of Oct. 31, we have raised a total of $31,208,926 toward that goal, so we have made great progress, but we still need your help in raising the full amount by the fall of 2014 when we move in. If you have already donated to the new school building, thank you. If you haven’t, please consider giving a gift to your alma mater. Remember that the payout can be made over a five-year term, which makes it easier to make a significant gift without writing a check for the whole amount all at once. Your new building commitment will have a huge impact on the future of dentistry in the state of Oregon.

Dean’s Fund For Excellence Gifts you make to the Dean’s Fund for Excellence, such as during the phonathon? In 2011-2012, Interim Dean Gary Chiodo, D.M.D. ’78, F.A.C.D., designated those gifts to support dental student outreach at clinics such as the Salud in Woodburn, and the Hood River migrant farm worker clinic where students work in multidisciplinary health teams to care for low-income individuals. Gifts last fiscal year also went to faculty development, the conference on professionalism for our first-year dental students, ceremonies such as commencement and the white coat, faculty development, and research. Those well-used dollars allow the dean to promote excellence at all levels within the dental school.

Graduate Residency Program A dental school alumnus was responsible for setting the stage for an anonymous $1 million gift that is enabling us to restore our hospital-based graduate residency program and to recruit one of the nation’s premier dentists to lead it (see box, below) this fiscal year.

Dental Student Scholarships Important corporate partners such as ODS Health, Willamette Dental Foundation, and Pacific Continental Bank, many of whom have alumni at their helms or on their boards, all continued funding dental student scholarships last fiscal year. These gifts are essential to reducing the significant loan debt that the majority of our dental school graduates face.

Continuing Dental Education Continuing education is an important part of a dental professional’s career and the main reason for Back-to-School Weekend. Many alumni sponsored and/or played in the Cantwell Memorial Golf Tournament in late September, the proceeds of which fully funded the Cantwell Memorial Lecture/Margaret M. Ryan Dental Hygiene Update the next morning. The lecture speaker this year was unquestionably excellent (!) and it was another chance for alumni to connect and get up-to-date on medical emergencies while garnering continuing education credit.

This is just a short list of how alumni gifts are making a difference at the OHSU School of Dentistry. Though I’ve only touched on a few, it’s fair to say that alumni donations support and enhance a culture of excellence. Please keep those checks coming! Remember: be a better leader, make a bigger difference. Your donations to the school allow us to do just that.

Thank you,

Steven W. Beadnell

Steve Beadnell, D.M.D. ’80 Alumni Association President

Richard Knight, D.M.D. ’79, adjunct assistant professor of restorative dentistry, was one of a dozen alumni and student volunteers making calls at the mid-October fall phonathon. The annual event raised more than $45,000, in four nights of calling for the Dean’s Fund for Excellence. Said another volunteer caller, Susan Rustvold, D.M.D. ’85, “I enjoy touching base with my classmates. It does feel like an effective way to encourage contributions.” (Photo Sydney Cleveger)

Dr. Birchfield Uses Hand Skills to Brighten Clinic Waiting Area

Kathleen Birchfield, D.M.D. ’87, has long been artistic.

“I come from an art-oriented family,” said the longtime assistant professor of restorative dentistry. “My dad was a cultural anthropologist and he brought home all sorts of art media and ideas from other cultures. My brother and I were always doing art.”

Dr. Birchfield’s most recent artistic passion is Japanese flower arranging and she has been sharing her skills with OHSU School of Dentistry patients, staff, faculty, and students by bringing in one bouquet a week. “I belong to one of the schools of Ikebana International,” she said. “We have class every week and the arrangements are usually fairly large. The dental school has a perfect alcove in the pre-doctoral clinic waiting area and it seemed like the perfect home for what we make.”

Dr. Birchfield was born in Upland, Calif., and her family moved frequently as she was growing up. She said she “stumbled” into dentistry, beginning as a dental assistant in the Los Angeles area. “If you’d told me in my early 20’s that I’d be a dentist, I would have fallen over laughing,” she said. “But when I was shown how to wax a crown, I liked it so much I then went to dental technology school to become a dental lab technician.

When Dr. Birchfield’s husband, Brent Anderson, got a job at Tektronix in the 1970s, the couple moved north and Dr. Birchfield completed technology school at Portland Community College, became certified in dental ceramics, and had her own lab in southwest Portland. She did pre-dental studies at Portland State University. She began dental school in 1983.

After dental school graduation, Dr. Birchfield joined the dental school faculty in the department of restorative dentistry, in both clinical and pre-clinical settings.

In 1992, Dr. Birchfield went into private practice in downtown Portland. But over the years, basal thumb arthritis slowed her down and “after my fifth hand surgery” she retired in 2006 and rejoined the dental school part-time in 2007. “I work with the third- and fourth-year dental students in fixed and removable (crown and bridge and dentures) in the various integrated group practices,” she said. “On Fridays I am in admitting, screening patients.”

“I really enjoy being with the students,” said Dr. Birchfield. “This is the best part of my dental career so far. The biggest challenge is translating the three-dimensional world of dentistry into words.”

It was actually one of her former classmates, Yuriya Manabe, D.M.D. ’87, Hillsboro, Ore., who encouraged Dr. Birchfield to learn flower-arranging at Ryusei-Ha, the Ikebana school. “Yuriya, originally from Japan, invited me to one of her classes, and I was hooked” said Dr. Birchfield.

Help Plan and Attend Your Reunion!

We’re already underway with reunion planning for the Oregon Dental Conference weekend from April 5 to 7 – and we need your help!

This spring, and during the Annual Meeting and Awards Luncheon on April 6, we’ll be honoring classes that end in 3 and 8.

We are looking for DMD and RDH alumni from those years to help coordinate their class reunion. Acting as a coordinator is a great way to learn what your classmates are doing and where they are practicing. The staff of the Alumni Relations Program has compiled a helpful packet to guide coordinators through reunion coordination.

A big “thank you” to those who have already committed to lead their class reunion (see below). If you are interested in coordinating your reunion, please contact the staff of the Alumni Relations Program as soon as possible at (503) 552-0708.
