Course Description
This course is a weekly seminar course that will cover selected readings in a focused topic in bioinformatics. This year’s topic is Computational Approaches to Illuminating the Druggable Genome. We will focus on bioinformatics and computational biology methods for exploring and investigating the druggable genome, i.e. the parts of the genome that are therapeutically actionable. This will include an emphasis on under-studied and under-investigated aspects of the druggable genome. In addition to critically reading and assessing papers in the field, students will each lead a weekly paper discussion to develop and hone presentation skills.

Graduate Studies in the OHSU School of Medicine is committed to providing grades to students in a timely manner. Course instructors will provide students with information in writing at the beginning of each course that describes the grading policies and procedures including but not limited to evaluation criteria, expected time needed to grade individual student examinations and type of feedback they will provide.

Class grades are due to the Registrar by the Friday following the week of finals. However, on those occasions when a grade has not been submitted by the deadline, the following procedure shall be followed:

1) The Department/Program Coordinator will immediately contact the Instructor requesting the missing grade, with a copy to the Program Director and Registrar.
2) If the grade is still overdue by the end of next week, the Department /Program Coordinator will email the Department Chair directly, with a copy to the Instructor and Program Director requesting resolution of the missing grade.
3) If, after an additional week the grade is still outstanding, the student or Department /Program Coordinator may petition the Office of Graduate students for final resolution.

Attendance and Participation
Students are expected to critically read the weekly assigned literature. In-class participation will include guided discussion of the assigned readings, responses to presenter questions, and completing constructive weekly evaluations for student presenters.

Student Presentations
Student presenters will be responsible for presenting the material for their assigned week to the class and leading discussion on a critical analysis of the assigned paper(s). This includes relevant background information, methods, key results, and major conclusions. Presenters should be comfortable explaining and discussing all figures, tables, and methods (including information in supplementary methods/materials as necessary). Assigned reading material should be reviewed in full with sufficient time to clarify any issues with the mentored teaching assistant and/or instructor as needed.

Academic Integrity
The students must follow the OHSU guidelines for academic integrity. You may discuss the general concepts and principles behind an assignment with other students. In fact, you are encouraged to do this, because it often leads to better comprehension of the material. However, in doing assignments, each student is expected to develop an individual solution. Under no circumstances should a student copy or consult the solution of another student, or copy a solution from any other source, including the Internet. See http://www.ohsu.edu/xd/education/library/research-assistance/plagiarism.cfm?WT_rank=1# and http://www.ohsu.edu/xd/education/teaching-and-learning-center/for-students/index.cfm for more information.

Copyright Information
Every reasonable effort has been made to protect the copyright requirements of materials used in this course. Class participants are warned not to copy, audio, or videotape in violation of copyright laws. Journal articles will be kept on reserve at the library or online for student access. Copyright law does allow for making one personal copy of each article from the original article. This limit also applies to electronic sources.
To comply with the fair use doctrine of the US copyright law, Sakai course sites close three weeks after grades are posted with the Registrar. Please be sure to download all course material you wish to keep before this time as you will have no further access to your courses.
