Where Oregon's Future Health Care Begins

September 2011

Scott Fields Elected to OHSU Professional Staff Board

We now have the results of an election held by the OHSU Professional Staff (PS) to fill two at-large member seats on the Profession Board (PB). This process was aimed at allowing representation by peer-elected members and was part of a new process following the revision of the PS bylaws which were approved in May. After two run-off elections to break a tie that resulted, we have confirmation of Scott Fields, MD from Family Medicine as one of two new representatives on the PB. Scott initiated his service at the 9/1 meeting. On the PB, Scott joins John Saultz, Dean Richardson and a dozen other clinical leaders.

Congratulations, Scott!

First Laurel G. Case Visiting Professor Visits OHSU

In September, OHSU Family Medicine inaugurated the Laurel G. Case, MD Visiting Professorship, named to honor our founding chairman. Dr. Case was instrumental in establishing the department in 1971, and led the faculty as chairman until 1982.

The first Case Visiting Professor was Warren P. Newton, MD, MPH. Dr. Newton is Chairman of the Department of Family Medicine, Vice Dean for Education and Chief Education Officer for the University of North Carolina School of Medicine. Dr. Newton was on campus September 7-9, 2011, during which he presented several talks and met with many faculty and others in the institution.

Warren P. Newton, MD, MPH

On Wednesday, September 7, Dr. Newton presented Family Medicine Grand Rounds, which was transmitted by PolyCom to our network clinics and streamed live to those viewing at other sites. The topic of his talk was: Residency Practice Redesign: Past, Present, and Future. Here is the URL for the presentation:

http://www.ohsu.edu/edcomm/flash/flash_player.php?params=4%60/hosp/familymed/pres080711-2.flv%60vod&width=640&height=480&title=Family%20Medicine%2C%2009/07/11

The highlight of the visit was his lecture Transforming Care Across an Entire State, held Thursday, September 8 at the OHSU Old Library Auditorium. Betty Jean Case, widow of Laurel G. Case, MD, attended with her family. Other attendees included State of Oregon officials, OHSU leaders, faculty and staff from many departments, residents and students. Dr. Newton described visionary changes in health care occurring in the state of North Carolina, with implications for future health care delivery in Oregon.

40th Anniversary Weekend Huge Success

A record turn-out at the Pennington Lectures and a gala celebration at the Anniversary Banquet were the highlights of an exciting weekend August 26 and 27, 2011.

There were 109 registrants at the 15th Annual Merle Pennington Lectures in Family Medicine held all day Friday and Saturday morning. The Merle Pennington Lecture was by John Saultz, who spoke on Family Medicine as Counter-Culture in 2011. This was followed by a panel discussion, moderated by Scott Fields, as four residency graduates discussed Four Decades of Family Medicine Residency Training. All in all, counting the four residency graduate panelists, there were 22 family physicians on the program—an all-time high.

Pennington Lectures Conference Attendees

The 40th Anniversary Banquet was held at the Embassy Suites at Washington Square. As moderator, Bob Taylor recognized special honored guests involved in the early days of the Department; these included Betty Jean Case, Dorothea Pennington, Peter Goodwin, Dean Emeritus John Kendall, Richard Bernard, and the first residency graduates--Bob Hakala and Roy Hall. Also recognized was former residency coordinator Suzanne Fournier.

Dorothea Pennington and Betty Jean Case

Peter Goodwin and Richard Holmes

Joyce Hollander-Rodriguez, newly appointed residency director at Cascades East Residency Program in Klamath Falls, honored outgoing residency director Rob Ross.

There was loud applause for the Reunion Planning Committee and other staff who helped make the weekend a success: Coelleda O'Neil, Laurie Charron, Andrea Marsden, Suzanne Fournier, Heather Sturgill, Roger Garvin, James Sirard, Susan Allen, Lily Cha, Chi Naruse, and Faye Kramer.

More on 40th Anniversary Weekend

John Saultz and Scott Fields were honored for 25 years of service. They joined faculty and staff, mentioned from the podium, who had been previously honored in various settings for 2+ decades of service to OHSU: Andrea Marsden, Sue Pastor, Kathy Ann Shanks, Bill Toffler, and Bob Taylor.

Scott Fields, Bob Taylor, John Saultz and Bill Toffler

John Saultz acknowledged various constituencies—including current staff and faculty, volunteer faculty, residents, residency graduates, and students—and he shared an update on current Department status.

As part of the evening's festivities, Jim Calvert, the first Residency Director of the Cascades East Family Medicine Residency Program, was inducted into the OHSU Family Medicine Hall of Fame. This honor is described on page 9 in this newsletter.

Jim Calvert listening to John Saultz

Rob Ross and Joyce Hollander-Rodriguez

John Saultz launched the Peter A. Goodwin Fund for Resident Teaching, Travel and Scholarship. A donation of $1,000 or more qualifies a person to be one of "Goodwin's Grateful Graduates" (even if you are not technically a residency graduate). John reported that there are already 10 charter donors to the fund. We invite all reading this message to join us, using the donation form on page 32.

Scott Fields then moderated recollections by attendees--some poignant, some humorous, and some slightly outrageous.

Many lingered long after dinner, renewing friendships and sharing stories, and perhaps planning to attend our next Anniversary Celebration.

Family Medicine Summer Observership

Thirteen pre-first year medical students participated in the 2011 Family Medicine Summer Observership. Their Orientation was held in the Department of Family Medicine on Friday, August 5. They were welcomed by Kathy Chappelle and Anita Taylor who, with the assistance of Chi Naruse, coordinated the day's activities.

Their first lecture at OHSU was delivered by Robert B. Taylor on the history and scope of Family Medicine. Shawn Blanchard outlined the components of the Patient Interview and they practiced interviewing skills in two small groups led by Bob Taylor and Brett White. Following lunch, they were divided into two groups to practice Physical Exam Examination skills led by Bob Taylor and William Toffler.

During the week of August 6-12 the students were hosted in the homes and practices of the following family physicians:

Leslie Brott, MD	McMinnville	James Nordal, MD	Cave Junction
Maria Czarnecki, MD	Hood River	Guy Oltman, MD and Doug Flaiz, MD	Hermiston
Heather Diaz, MD	Salem	Dean Orton, MD	Lincoln City
Dawna-Marie Fixott, MD	Redmond	Mark Rampton, MD	Corvallis
Kevin Johnston, MD	Burn	Michelle Rasmussen, MD	Salem
Mark Lyon, MD	Eugene	James Sinnott, MD	Coquille
Russel Nichols, MD	Heppner

FMIG at the OHSU Club Fair

On Wednesday, September 7, the OHSU student interest groups held the annual Club Fair to introduce their activities to the first year students.

The Family Medicine Interest Group showcased their many community service and educational activities. First year students were offered a chance to practice suturing skills with pigs' ears under the expert guidance of Ben Schneider, Chief Resident.

Janice Hohnstein Receives Golden Rose Award

Janice Hohnstein, research administrative assistant, was one of five OHSU employees to receive the Golden Rose Award in August, 2011. The Golden ROSE Award is presented to five outstanding employees each month. Award winners are honored guests at a recognition party to which all OHSU employees are invited. Awards are based on nominations by fellow employees, patients or others.

Elizabeth Steiner from Family Medicine submitted the following nomination for Janice:

The Department of Family Medicine's Research Program has grown dramatically over the past five years, and Janice is a key part of that growth. Janice is the person responsible for every technical aspect of making sure that grants go in properly. She helps with budgets; fills out and circulates the PPQ's (Proposed Project Questionnaires); communicates with Research Grants & Contracts to make sure they have everything they need to actually submit the grant to the funding agency; collates every piece of every grant into one well-organized, coherent document; and generally holds the researchers' hands as we walk through the process. Once grants are funded, she's also the person who helps make sure progress reports get submitted, budgets stay in line, etc, etc. In early June, HRSA (a federal agency) put out an RFA that resulted in four grants being written and submitted from our department on a very tight timeline (5 weeks), at the same time that she had three other grants going in. I was the Principal Investigator on one of the HRSA grants. Through it all, Janice maintained her usual calm, unflappable demeanor. When I interacted with her, it was as if mine was the only project she was working on. I had her undivided attention, and her responsiveness was extraordinary. Janice's grace, excellence at her work, service orientation, and commitment to our department really exemplify service excellence. Without her, our research program would not be thriving in the same way. We couldn't sustain the level of growth that we've experienced, nor would we have such a strong financial base for our research endeavors. She is truly a pleasure to work with, and I am so fortunate to have her as a colleague. I just can't say enough good about her. Oh, and she's going to say she's just doing her job. She's one of the most unassuming people I know as well!

Jim Calvert Selected for OHSU Family Medicine Hall of Fame

At the 40th Anniversary Banquet August 27, 2001, Jim Calvert was inducted into the OHSU Family Medicine Hall of Fame.

The Department of Family Medicine Hall of Fame Award is intended to honor OHSU Family Medicine faculty members who, "through teaching and personal example, have advanced Family Medicine in Oregon." The award is made at each Department Anniversary celebration, held every 5 years. The decision to award Hall of Fame status is made by the Department Chairman, based on the advice of the Faculty Advisory Council.

To be eligible for the OHSU Family Medicine Hall of Fame, an individual must:

- Have been a full time faculty member for at least 10 years
- Be formally retired (although holding a part-time, adjunct appointment is not a disqualification for the award)
- Have a record of exemplary service to Family Medicine in Oregon

Jim Calvert is eminently qualified for this honor, as founding director of the Cascades East Family Medicine Residency Program in Klamath Falls. Under Jim's leadership, the team at CEFMR has taken the residency from a dream to one of the premier residency programs in America with an emphasis on preparing family physicians for rural practice.

OHSU Family Medicine Hall of Fame honorees are listed on a permanent plaque outside the Chairman's Office in the OHSU Marquam Hill Building. Jim joins previous honorees: Laurel Case, MD; Merle Pennington, MD; William A. Fisher, MD; Peter A. Goodwin, MD; and Robert B. Taylor, MD.

Rupert Goetz Appointed to Head Oregon State Hospital

Rupert R. Goetz, MD, family physician and psychiatrist, has been appointed to serve as chief medical officer of the Oregon State Hospital. Dr. Goetz was a faculty member in OHSU Family Medicine and the OHSU Department of Psychiatry before leaving to serve in the Oregon Office of Mental Health Services and later as medical director the Hawaii Department of Health's Adult Mental Health Division.

In 2006, Dr. Goetz and his wife Anita named an exam room in the OHSU Family Medicine South Waterfront Clinic.

Rupert and Anita, welcome back to Oregon.

Clerkship Coordinator Takes Center Stage

You may have already heard some of the buzz around the Family Medicine Department but our very own Marti Mendenhall will be performing her first Portland Solo Jazz Concert on October 29th at the First Unitarian Church at 7:30 pm. Though most of us know Marti for juggling third and fourth year students, she has a secret life as an accomplished jazz singer and published composer. Who knew?

While this is her first solo concert in Portland, Marti is a regular soloist with the Oregon Repertory Singers, guest conducts on occasion and teaches vocal workshops where amateur and experienced participants learn singing methods that foster self-confidence, expand the range of nonverbal expression, and promote health through breathing exercises. Recently, Marti has presented her workshop and given concerts at Humboldt State University and also in Madison, Wisconsin at a National Musician's Conference. As Marti likes to say, "I can teach anybody to sing!" Who knew?

Marti Mendenhall

Marti is excited to extend an invitation to her concert to everyone on campus. Read more about the concert and the biographies of the jazz musicians at the link below. Purchase tickets online or swing by Marti's desk on the third floor of Emma Jones Hall to buy them in person. And, we are told that all OHSU staff and students that come into her office and say "Jazz is the coolest thing ever", will receive a discount off the ticket price. Could it be that easy? Who knew?

Congratulations Tsubasa and Hiroko

Here's the email from Tsubasa Nozawa announcing the birth of their baby boy, Ashitaka on August 25th.

We got a small but precious life yesterday. Baby Ashitaka Nozawa was delivered by Ceasarean section because of fore-living of the cord.

He and Hiroko are very healthy and have energy now.

I couldn't image how to be a good father and it sometimes felt confused. But now naturally I think I can accept all the things about it. And I only know how happy I am !

Drs. Tsubasa and Hiroko were JADECOM residents in Family Medicine in October – December, 2010.

About 1984 Residency Graduate Laura Miller, MD

In the Reunion Book distributed at our 40th Anniversary Banquet, we omitted the photo of Laura Miller, MD, OHSU Residency Program Class of 1984. We regret the omission. This photo, of Laura on a camel in Jerusalem, is just too good to miss, and so we are presenting her brief biography here, complete with photo.

I work for Adventist Health Medical Group as a "coverage physician" and I love it. I recently returned (June, 2011) from a trip to Israel and will try to upload a picture of myself on a camel--I am not very computer savvy, but I do cope with an EMR.

Laura Miller, MD on Camel in Jerusalem

I went to Africa as a missionary right out of residency. That gave me a chance to study tropical medicine in Liverpool, French in the French Alps and the Bible above Lake Geneva in Switzerland. I hope in a few years to no longer need an income and then I will switch to doing volunteer work in the US and going on short-term mission trips.

I did finally marry at age 41, no kids, he left a few years later and now I'm on my own again.

Melissa Novak, DO

SM/FM Clinician Teacher
Gabriel Park Clinic

Dr. Novak earned her DO at Midwestern University in Chicago, IL. She spent an extra year in medical school to pursue a fellowship in teaching of Osteopathic Manipulation. Robyn Liu, MD

South Waterfront Clinic

Robyn Liu, MD, MPH, FAAFP will be joining OHSU Family Medicine at CHH, where she will be providing full-scope family medicine with maternity care and obstetrics. She is delighted to be coming home to this department.

Robyn Liu, MD

Dr. Liu is a 2007 graduate of the OHSU combined residency program in family medicine and preventive medicine, and received her MPH in 2007 from Portland State with an emphasis on health management and policy. For the last four years, Dr. Liu has been a staff physician with Greeley County Health Services in Tribune, Kansas, where the population density is too low to qualify as “rural” – they actually call it “frontier.” She collaborated with three other family physicians in a practice that serves two critical access hospitals, three rural health clinics, and three long-term-care facilities. Every day and every situation was completely unique, and it was a perfect environment for learning first-hand exactly what the scope of family and community medicine could be.

Never content to put out fires without looking for who’s got the matches, Dr. Liu has also taken on several activities around health care systems improvement. She has been heavily involved at both state and national levels with the American Academy of Family Physicians, and will serve as the New Physician representative to the AAFP Board of Directors starting this fall. Dr. Liu is active in the physician advocacy group Doctors for America, and contributes regularly to their blog, “Progress Notes.” She has written op-ed pieces and given community presentations on such topics as health care reform, influenza vaccination, and nutrition and obesity. Dr. Liu has also been a collaborator on original research in physical activity among rural populations.

Dr. Liu will be dividing her time between patient-care duties at the CHH and work as a Clinical Evidence Specialist at the Center for Evidence-Based Policy.

When she’s not working, you’ll probably find her playing with her daughters (ages 7 and 4), trying a new board game with her GeekDad husband Jonathan, or with her nose in a book.

Doreen Wood joined the Family Medicine Research Section in August 2011 as a Research Administrative Coordinator.

Prior to joining the Family Medicine Research Section she worked in Environmental Services and Infectious Disease Clinical Research here at OHSU.

Farewell to Dr. Hirofumi Namiki

The JADECOM resident, Hirofumi Namiki came to OHSU with his fiancé Hitomi Yamashita in early July and had a 3 month program.

He is a shy and sweet gentleman who might not have spoken up, but he focused on each session and set his goals to get as much as possible from his experience here.

He picked “History of Family Physicians” as his self-study project during his program and he gave a presentation, especially about the history of FPs in Japan to finish up his program at Emma Jones Hall on September 29th.

We had crowds of about 30 people including Drs. Taylor, Saultz and Fields. Dr. Meg Hayes gave him the certificate for his achievement after his presentation.

We had 7 JADECOM medical students this summer and Hirofumi supported them with the other resident, Yuji Yamada. Those medical students got someone to look after, learn from and talk to in their own language. They were also grateful to meet new people and started new friendships and good relationships during their visit.

Hirofumi and Hitomi enjoyed their off time – BBQ, boat riding, rafting, visiting Cannon Beach, Crater Lake and California.

Scott Fields Presents White Coat Ceremony Address

Scott Fields presented the Address to the Students at the annual White Coat Ceremony held Friday, August 19 at the Newmark Theater in downtown Portland. At the event, entering medical students were “cloaked” in their first white coat in front of family, friends and faculty. Scott addressed the newly-arrived first-year students on the topic their Opportunities and Responsibilities. Here is what Scott said:

Scott Fields, MD

I want to thank Dr Osborne for asking me to share a few words at this important celebration. You are receiving your first white coat, symbolizing your entry into the medical profession. We all want to share our pride in your accomplishment with your family and friends, and to welcome you to OHSU School of Medicine

You came to us from all over the country, from a variety of educational backgrounds, but more importantly, from different life experiences; some good and some less good; yet you are all here. You are a team. You are about to embark on a challenging, yet rewarding, path to become a physician. You will learn together; support one another; and you will experience the ups and downs of the intensity involved in caring for others. You will learn about yourself, you will learn about what matters to you. You will learn to balance the rigors of caring for patients with the need to maintain a vibrant personal life. Doing both well; each to the best of your ability; not trading one over the other.

Deciding to become a physician is all about delayed gratification. It is a path that requires vision, vision for what you want to do to provide meaning to your life. It is a way of caring. It is a way of prioritizing. It is about life being more than just about you, and even more than about you and your family and immediate friends. It is also about you caring about your patients and your potential patients, your community.

You have been chosen from over 4,800 applicants for 1 position in a class of 128. Being chosen is not a privilege, it is an opportunity. It is an opportunity to become a physician. And you are not a privileged individual; you are a person who has been given the opportunity to accept the responsibility of caring for our society. The responsibility to care for families, like those that I have in my practice; such as the family of four generations, the last two of which I delivered; a family with hopes and dreams; a family with strong history of obesity, diabetes, arthritis, and cancer, yet one who is striving to improve itself day by day; or the family of a proud farmer who has spent the past decade caring for his wife who is wheelchair dependent after a stroke, but who faced his own medical challenge of brain cancer, while being supported by over 150 foster children whom he and his wife cared for over the past 40 years; or the family who emigrated from Southeast Asia, with a 4’8” grandmother who just wants to give me a hug each month, who has hypertension, heart disease, and early dementia; and whose daughter is a domestic abuse survivor trying to care for her own children and her mother, while at the same time earning a living.

I have a responsibility to these families and to society, to obtain the knowledge, skills, and attitudes to be a competent physician. But I have the honor to get to know them, to have them share their hopes and fears, to examine them, to hold their hands; to see them cry, and to hear them laugh, to hear their stories. In the next two weeks, each of you will get to hear these stories as a member of a health care team. This is the privilege.

As a future physician you are being given an opportunity to accept the responsibility to demonstrate the following values:

Altruism: You are committing to attend to the best interest of your patients, ahead of your own self-interest.

Accountability: You are making a commitment to be accountable to your patients, to society on issues of public health, and to the medical profession.

Excellence: You are making a commitment to be a life-long learner.

Duty: You are committing to make yourself available and responsive to your patients, making a commitment to serve the community and the profession.

Honor and integrity: You are committing to fairness and truthfulness in your interactions with patients, and those with whom you work and learn.

Respect for others: You are committing to demonstrate respect for your patients and their families, and for members of the health care team

You are being given the opportunity.

With the opportunity comes responsibility.

And with the responsibility, comes the greatest privilege that you will ever receive; the opportunity to care and to serve.

So now there really is only one question: what will each one of you do with this opportunity? Will you make these commitments? You were chosen to be here today, not because you were the smartest 128 applicants; there are lots of smarter people out there; but rather because we believe that you have the greatest capacity to care and to serve. So please, not for yourself, not for your family and friends who are here today, but rather for your future patients and society as a whole; make the commitment to make the most of this opportunity.

On behalf of the faculty, we welcome you, and we commit to helping you achieve this goal. Thank you.

George Bernard Shaw and the True Joy in Life

This is the true joy in life, the being used for a purpose recognized by yourself as a mighty one; the being thoroughly worn out before you are thrown on the scrapheap; the being a force of Nature instead of a feverish, selfish, little collection of ailments and grievances complaining that the world will not devote itself to making you happy.

Irish playwright George Bernard Shaw (1856-1950). Preface to the drama Man and Superman, 1903

Placing Notices of Job Opportunities for Physicians

Our newsletter goes each month to some 1500 persons, mostly family physicians, and especially our residency graduates. We see the newsletter as a way to maintain communication among graduates, faculty, staff, donors, and friends of the department.

If you are one of the above, and would like to send us a notice of a job opening for a family physician, we will be happy to print it. Independent Clinic is Seeking Family Physician

Tuality Physicians, PC, an independent primary care clinic in Hillsboro, Oregon, is seeking a full time (4 days weekly) family physician, to begin in the summer of 2011.

This position is as an independent-contractor physician, with the intention of proportional ownership (shared with four other physicians) in 5 years. We currently have five independently-contracted physicians: four family practice physicians and one chiropractic physician. The arriving physician would assume a well-established practice, with the corresponding income from that practice.

Our physicians are paid on the basis of a percentage of income, and our average remuneration for full-time physicians exceeds $220,000 per year. There is a guaranteed minimum of $175,000 for the first year.

Because we are an independent clinic, we are able to set our own policies, be non-bureaucratic, and personalize our practices for the benefit of our patients and ourselves. We have no government or state contracts, and have opted-out of Medicare. The amount of geriatrics and hospital care we do is limited because of the nature of our patient population, and we utilize a hospitalist service for inpatient care.

Due to the nature of our patient population, and because we do not do hospital care, our weekend and evening call is uniquely free – we generally go entire weekends without a single telephone call. Such freedom from weekend and evening call fits in with the three overall goals of the clinic: high quality outpatient care, exceptional income and a quality life style for our physicians.

We have electronic medical records, excellent employees and a cordial and pleasant work environment.

Our goals are: excellent medicine, a pleasant work environment, excellent personal lifestyles and maximal income – and these goals are consistently met in our clinic.

If you are interested in this position, please visit our web site at <http://www.tualityphysicians.com> or contact me by phone or email.
