

Faculty vitality is essential for the sustained health of OHSU. The School of Medicine Office of the Dean seeks to enhance this vitality by providing events and resources to support the ongoing professional development of our faculty.

The Career Series is designed to help individuals get the career development assistance they need. Participation in these seminars and workshops will help faculty acquire baseline academic competencies and gain essential understanding of how best to succeed in our institution. The sessions are taught by a group of multidisciplinary experts. Though the primary audience is faculty, the sessions are open to the entire OHSU community.

The Clinical Teaching Series is designed to enhance faculty skills in clinical teaching through interactive workshops, as well as to establish a sense of collegiality among teachers across the institution. The sessions are taught by a group of master educators.

Additional Resources

The SOM Faculty Development website has updated information about events in addition to a wealth of resources for professional development.
www.ohsu.edu/somfacultydevelopment

Archives

If you missed a past seminar or workshop, presentation archives are available on the Mentoring web site.
www.ohsu.edu/mentoring

SCHOOL OF MEDICINE
Oregon Health & Science University

Do You Have a Plan?

Wednesday, February 22, 8:00–9:30 a.m.
Mackenzie Hall, Room 2201

Ron Sakaguchi, DDS, MS, PhD, MBA

Professor, Division of Management

Most companies use a strategic plan for setting direction, prioritizing projects and assessing new opportunities. A similar plan could help us achieve the same in our personal lives. In this interactive 1-1/2 hour workshop we will use a strengths-based approach to create a personal plan. With this plan you'll be able to stay focused on long-term goals while managing daily activities more confidently and effectively.

Registration, though not required, is appreciated →