

Discover OHSU!

Discover OHSU! provides educational visits to the Marquam Hill campus for high school and college-age students enrolled in science, health science or health career programs throughout Oregon and Southwest Washington. The majority of the more than 1,500 students that participate annually are juniors or seniors in high school. Visits are offered on Tuesdays and Thursdays from October through May. The visits are arranged by teachers.

Discover OHSU! partners with Donate Life Northwest to provide information and presentations regarding organ, tissue and whole body donation. Donate Life NW presentations comprise talks from both a professional in the field and either a donor recipient or a donor family member.

In addition, students will, with signed parental consent, participate in a cadaver presentation led by a second-year medical student.

On a limited basis, visits to clinical or research facilities may be arranged for student groups. Areas previously visited by students include Angiography, Cardiology, Casey Eye Institute, Child Life Therapy, the Dotter Institute Program, Educational Communications, Emergency Department, Health Promotion and Sports Medicine, and Patient Transportation.

Volunteer guides, who are either members of the Assistance League of Portland or the community, escort visiting students.
