2010 SHARING HOPE PROGRAM FOR MEN

Criteria and Application

LIVESTRONG

Made possible by participating sperm banks and fertility centers

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Goal
Cancer patients have little opportunity to save for the high costs of cancer treatment, let alone budget for procedures or treatments intended to preserve the possibility of conceiving with their own sperm. Yet there is only a small window of opportunity between diagnosis and treatment during which cancer patients may pursue these options, and the upfront costs are often prohibitive. The goal of the LIVESTRONG Sharing Hope program for men is to increase access to such procedures and treatments for qualified men who are diagnosed with cancer in their reproductive years.

The LIVESTRONG Sharing Hope program, formerly administered by Fertile Hope, is proud to offer assistance to qualified male applicants by providing access to discounted sperm banking services through the generous support of participating sperm banking facilities.

Overview
The Sharing Hope program does not grant direct financial contributions to individuals, but instead has partnered with key organizations to increase access to procedures and treatments intended to preserve the possibility of fertility for certain qualified cancer patients whose medical treatments present the risk of infertility and who meet the criteria set forth below.

For a list of participating facilities, please go to LIVESTRONG.org/fertilehope or call 866.965.7205.

What is covered?
LIVESTRONG's Sharing Hope program for men helps reduce the cost of sperm banking.

The services that are available at reduced cost include but may not be limited to:
- One on-site collection of a sperm specimen at a participating location or one off-site collection of a sperm specimen through the Live:On sperm banking by mail service.
- Analysis, processing and freezing of one sperm specimen
- A one-year storage contract

Discounts on additional specimens or additional years of storage may be available.

For details on discounted rates and services for individual clinics, call LIVESTRONG at 866.965.7205.

What is not covered?
While we understand the importance of other fertility preservation and parenthood options, LIVESTRONG's Sharing Hope program for men only covers sperm banking. The reduced cost offered by the sperm bank does not include many of the ancillary costs of preparing for, going through or storage after treatment.

These additional costs could include, but are not limited to:
- Laboratory work performed on your behalf
- Doctor's fees
- Long-term storage (beyond the initial one-year storage contract)
- Implantation procedures

The program participant or his insurance company will have to bear the costs of services provided by entities or individuals not affiliated with the Sharing Hope program, including, but not limited to, the costs associated with the ancillary services noted above. It is important to know what those costs are and to plan accordingly.

Prior to banking sperm, all program participants are required to have infectious disease blood tests. Patients must contact the participating sperm bank to find out which blood tests are required and when the tests must be conducted and sent to the facility. The participant's oncologist may conduct the tests or the tests can be performed on-site at the sperm bank at an additional cost. If the test results are not received, the participant may be charged additional quarantine fees.

If a physician determines that treatments or medications other than the services provided by the sperm bank are necessary, the participant will be responsible for the cost of such treatments and medications.

Some of the fertility preservation technologies covered by the Sharing Hope program are only available in major metropolitan areas. LIVESTRONG will make its best effort to refer patients to the nearest participating facility, but the program does not cover the cost of travel.

The Sharing Hope program does not cover the cost of oncology services or any associated expenses incurred during cancer treatments. Please keep in mind that LIVESTRONG is not a medical provider; all program participants acknowledge and agree that LIVESTRONG shall not be liable for any aspect of their current and future treatment. All cancer patients should discuss the risks, side effects, time requirements and other aspects of all treatment options with their physicians before selecting the most appropriate course of care.
