The OHSU Department of Dermatology, in conjunction with Doernbecher Children’s Hospital, is pleased to offer our pediatric dermatology team. We have the Portland-metro area’s only board certified pediatric dermatologists (Drs. Krol, Leitenberger, and Adelson) and a certified physician assistant (Ms. Clayton) who focuses on pediatric dermatology.

OHSU pediatric dermatologists specialize in the evaluation and management of dermatologic problems for children, from birth to 18 years of age, and have substantial expertise in the diagnosis and treatment of common conditions like eczema (atopic dermatitis) and hemangiomas, to complex and unusual disorders such as genetic skin disorders and childhood psoriasis.

Pediatric dermatologists are trained to recognize the unique developmental and physiologic aspects of infants, children and adolescents, and design skin care treatment regimens specific to children’s developmental and physical needs.

OHSU Pediatric Dermatologists specialize in caring for children with common and rare skin conditions such as:

- Acne
- Birthmarks (congenital nevi)
- Bullous diseases
- Eczema (atopic dermatitis)
- Hemangiomas

We also offer a Hemangioma and Vascular Birthmarks Clinic at OHSU for the special treatment of infants, children and adults with complicated hemangiomas or other unusual vascular lesions. This is a clinic formed to address the needs of patients with these complex lesions, and includes doctors and nurses from a variety of specialties.
