Thank you to everyone who came to our open house and lecture on March 17th. We were thrilled to meet so many engaging, educated women, and are excited to keep you in the loop about the revolutionizing work we are conducting in this essential field of women's health.

Just a reminder that we currently have some very exciting study opportunities available to you (and your friends). Please consider calling us to learn more. Most of these opportunities require more time and commitment from research subjects.

Procedures include blood sampling, vaginal ultrasound to look at follicle growth and ovulation, and pelvic examinations to obtain samples of cervical mucus or the uterine lining. We recognize the inconvenience of these procedures, so all of these studies offer compensation from $1,000 to over $3,000. All research conducted has been approved by OHSU's institutional review board.

Women are the catalyst for change in this field. Be a part of it.

Please call (503) 494-3666 to schedule a confidential telephone screen, or find more information at our website below.

Sincerely,
The Division of Women's Health Research
