

Recognizing Outstanding Service Excellence

MaryAnn Head

laboratory sections coordinator, Immunogenetic Transplant Lab

William Brent Gardner submitted the following nomination...

As almost all can attest, software conversions and implementations can be a time consuming and stressful event. For a little over a year MaryAnn has worked countless hours preparing and developing a software database to replace our outdated system. To describe everything she has done and is currently doing would take the same amount of time. This new database/software contains all the same functionality for supporting the needs of all our various transplant services at OHSU/VA as well as our outside clients. Because of her forward thinking we now have applications yet to be explored and that leaves room for growth in the future. Because of her insight and planning for all possible scenarios, our deceased donor profile (used for appropriately allocating donor organs) runs with such ease and accuracy while cutting down on valuable time. As change is sometime hard to implement, it has been a smooth transition overall and has come with much excitement from the staff. We couldn't be more pleased with MaryAnn and all the dedication she has to our lab, the transplant community and OHSU.
