

New Approaches, Better Outcomes: OCTRI Funding for Novel Research Methodology Development Q&A session, November 19th

OCTRI's Novel Research Methodology Development Award provides funding over a one-year period to encourage and accelerate the creation, dissemination, and implementation of novel translational and clinical research methodologies.

Two levels of novel research methodology funding are available:

1. Development and dissemination of novel research methodologies (up to $25,000)
2. Publication/dissemination of novel research methodologies (up to $5,000)

For examples of pilot projects that would be viewed as responsive please see the full request for applications on the OCTRI website:
<http://www.ohsu.edu/xd/research/centers-institutes/octri/funding/index.cfm>

All interested investigators are invited to attend an Informational Q&A Session:

November 19th from 12:00pm – 1:00pm in BICC 124

Those on hand to answer questions include:

Eric Orwoll, OCTRI Director
David Ellison, OCTRI Associate Director
Colleen Lay, OCTRI Awards Program Director
Jonathan Jubera, OCTRI Awards Project Manager

Questions? Please contact Jonathan Jubera jubera@ohsu.edu

