ANSWERS:

Nail polish: Different brands contain different chemicals, so call the Poison Center with the bottle in hand. They can make a mess but aren't that poisonous.

Dry ice: Melted dry ice is safe to use in Halloween punch, but don't eat the actual ice slivers as they can cause frostbite!

Glow sticks: Too tempting for toddlers as everything goes in their mouths. During the holidays, we get a lot of calls about kids eating them. The liquid inside is stinky, tastes bad and is not very poisonous. Call us if you have any concerns.

Make up: Rarely very poisonous but skin reactions or rash can be seen.

Warning: most toxic on the list

Button batteries: Small enough to get caught in kid's throats or anywhere along the digestive tract- burns or perforation can happen.
