

Transposition of the Great Arteries (vessels)*

Transposition of the Great Arteries, or TGA, is a rare congenital heart defect (the baby is born with it) in which the two main arteries carrying blood out of the heart are switched in position. Babies with TGA may need surgery or other procedures soon after birth, so TGA is considered a critical congenital heart disease. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) estimates that about 1 in 3,300 babies born in the US is affected by this defect.
