Users are responsible for following OHSU’s policy on the Acceptable Use of Computing and Telecommunications Resources while using the Library’s computers. Modification of Library hardware or software, including desktop reconfiguration, is prohibited.

OHSU-Affiliated Users

The OHSU Library provides networked computers and lends technology to OHSU-affiliated users with OHSU network credentials to access resources in support of the healthcare, education, research and clinical care missions of the University. If you have OHSU network credentials, you may use any computer in the library except those designated for guest users. New OHSU employees may also use the guest computers to complete their online training.

Printing for OHSU-affiliates is available using a GoPrint account; please see the Library’s Computing Services page (https://www.ohsu.edu/library/computing-services) for more information.

The OHSU Library provides software for download and on computers for OHSU-affiliated users located in the BICC and the Learning Resources Center in the RLSB. A list of available software can be found on the Software page (https://www.ohsu.edu/library/software) of Library’s website. If you have questions about the software provided on Library computers, or would like to suggest a purchase, please contact us via the Contact the Library link on our website (http://ohsu.libanswers.com/), email (library@ohsu.libanswers.com) or phone (503-494-3460).

Guest Computer Users

The OHSU Library provides public access to health information and related resources. Please ask at the Library Service Desk if you need help finding information or using a Guest Computer.

- Use by visiting healthcare professionals and people conducting health science or patient-related research is the priority. If you are using computers for reasons other than health research, you may be asked to give up your computer for another person who is waiting.
- If people are waiting, your use may be limited to a 60-minute session.
- Library users must respect the rights of others and observe all applicable state and federal laws, the University Code of Conduct, and the Library’s Rules of Conduct.
- Guests who fail to comply with these guidelines may be prohibited from accessing the Guest Computers and/or the OHSU Library.

Library users are advised to evaluate the usefulness, validity, and reliability of material found on the Internet. OHSU Library does not assume any liability or responsibility for the accuracy, completeness, or usefulness of the information disclosed at or accessed through Library resources.

Printing for guests is available and may be paid for and picked up at the Library’s Service Desk; please see the Library’s Computing Services page (https://www.ohsu.edu/library/computing-services) for more information.
