

A message about clinical trials at the Knight Cancer Institute

At the Knight Cancer Institute, we remain committed to providing our patients access to clinical trials of cancer treatments. We want to update you on our response to the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) and its impact on clinical trials:

- We focused first on maximizing the safety of cancer patients and research staff.
- Most studies that provide important new therapies remain open for participation.
- For patients seeking clinical trial opportunities:
 - If you are interested in enrolling in a clinical trial, ask your physician or a member of the clinical trials team for specific details. Please visit our website at www.ohsu.edu/knight-cancer-institute to view available opportunities and contact information.

Clinical trials at the Knight Cancer Institute:

- For patients currently participating in clinical trials:
 - We will continue to provide treatment as planned.
 - We will minimize in-person visits and will instead, in many cases, conduct visits by telemedicine (video or telephone).
 - Patients may be contacted to review changes to their visits and details of their care plan to maximize their safety.

The safety of our patients and community is our biggest priority. We are committed to taking care of patients with cancer in the safest way possible and honoring physical distancing goals to protect our entire community. Thank you for your understanding as we navigate this changing landscape.

Eneida Nemecek
Knight Cancer Institute Medical Director for Clinical Research