This webinar is less about traditional grief as we know it, but instead a consideration of the collective grief we feel as a nation during this pandemic.