Copyright and Publication Guidelines

OHSU Historical Collections & Archives offers broad public access to its collections as a contribution to education and scholarship. Some materials in the collections may be protected by the U.S. Copyright Law (Title 17, U.S.C.) and/or by the copyright or neighboring-rights laws of other nations. More information is provided by the U.S. Copyright Office. Additionally, the reproduction of some materials may be restricted by terms of OHSU HC&A gift agreements, donor restrictions, privacy and publicity rights, licensing and trademarks, and the physical condition of the materials.

The nature of historical and archival collections means that copyright status may be difficult or even impossible to determine. OHSU HC&A may or may not hold rights to material in its collections, but provides available copyright information as a service to aid researchers in determining the appropriate use of an item. OHSU HC&A also provides copies of materials for individual research. It is the researcher's obligation to determine and satisfy copyright or other use restrictions when publishing or otherwise distributing materials from OHSU HC&A collections.

All materials and/or items used for publication should be properly cited and credit OHSU Historical Collections & Archives as the source.

OHSU HC&A assumes no responsibility for infraction of copyright laws, invasion of privacy, or any other improper or illegal use that may arise from reproduction of any image or other work.

In all instances, the applicant agrees to hold OHSU HC&A harmless against any and all claims arising or resulting from the use of these materials and shall indemnify OHSU HC&A for any and all costs and damages arising or resulting from any such unauthorized use.
