KUDO Corner

by SI Partners

- KUDOS to West Valley Hospital for donating reusable bags to Falls City School District for our June care packages. - Amy Houghtaling F.A.C.E.S
- KUDOS to Family Promise for passing along FIFTEEN cases of formula to Bambinos that had been donated to them that they could not use. We sure can!! - Glenda Dunaway Bambinos
- Colleen Bradford would like to give kudos to the West Salem SIT for approving funding to a Mom and her 4 children that live in West Salem, along with Natalie Lucey and Jennifer Segovia for all your assistance, outreach and help for this family. Also, to Jason Ramos, The Salvation Army for leveraging their Early Learning Hub monies because they live in West Salem, and to our generous Dallas community members who donated essential items. I've been able to deliver some of these items and I can tell you how much the family has appreciated all the outpouring that you all have provided. Helping her with furnishing their home has relieved so many stressors that they had and now she will be working with one of our Dallas Self Sufficiency Family Coaches moving forward on her path to self-sufficiency.
- Kudos to Angels in the Outfield for their generosity. They have helped multiple kids in our community this school year with accessing opportunities such as gymnastics, swimming, and a magic show. They provided chromebooks for a family who needed support with distance learning. We appreciate all that they do for families. - Melissa Lunde Polk County Family and Community Outreach School Based Mental Health Associate
- KUDOS to a Falls City community member who donated a vest, paddle, and radio after viewing a SurveyMonkey for a client in need of these items before she could start her new job. - Amy Houghtaling F.A.C.E.S
- KUDOS to West Valley SI partner Eli Cox who donated funds towards a Falls City Service Integration need. Thank you for your generosity, Eli!
- Kudos: To Monmouth City Recorder Phyllis Bolman and Western Oregon University President Rex Fuller. An email blast to all WOU students led to a 0.5% Census response rate 'lift' in the two Census tracts where most WOU students live off-campus. - Jim Grham Census
- KUDOS to a Polk County community member who donated a twin bed and frame to a family in the Central area.
- KUDOS to West Valley community for donating supplies and plywood to West Valley Community Campus after they experienced vandalism. WVCC was able to use those donated items to secure their facility and continue serving families and children in the greater Polk County area. - Rubi Ramirez YCCO Service Integration Coordinator
- KUDOS to Robert Young Construction who partnered with Falls City Service Integration to help three adults living with disabilities repair their bathroom to make it safe for them all to use. Robert Young Construction leveraged work hours and funds that went towards the cost of this repair, not charging Service Integration.

United Way Good360 Is Back Up and Running!

by Colman Crocker

For the last few months, United Way has needed to put its regular programs, like Good360, on hold due to the COVID outbreak. During that time we have focused on providing food boxes to those unable to leave their homes. While this food box program will continue through July, I am happy to say that Good360 will return to hosting product distribution events at our warehouse in South Salem. For the rest of June, Good360 events will take place every Monday, Thursday and Friday at 11am and 1pm for one hour each. Each agency may register for two events per month as usual, and no more than two individuals should attend the events to appropriately distance ourselves in the warehouse space. If you have any questions about future events, please contact me at ccrocker@unitedwaymwv.org.

You can register for times by following this link: United Way Good360 Events for June 2020, <https://events.r20.constantcontact.com/register/eventReg?oeidk=a07eh4x51j05b42f379&oseq=&c=&ch=>

We are also in need of volunteer groups to help us open and sort Amazon and Walmart boxes. If you would like to help us find great products to give out to our community partners, you can see our volunteering dates here: <https://signup.com/go/GLDvVyw>

Oregon Health & Science University School of Nursing in Monmouth Interprofessional Care Access Network

by Holly Andreosky, MSN, FNP-BC

Despite the uncertain and ever-changing times during the COVID-19 pandemic, the OHSU School of Nursing in Monmouth students involved in the Interprofessional Care Access Network, or I-CAN, continued to provide support to their vulnerable clients in Polk and Marion counties this past spring term. I-CAN focuses on healthcare delivery, specifically for people who are disadvantaged or underserved due to their social determinants of health.

This spring term, a group of eight students in the OHSU School of Nursing's Population Health Practice course were involved in I-CAN. They worked in pairs and communicated with their client(s) via phone this term, instead of in person. These calls served as an opportunity to check in with their clients, address concerns, and ensure basic needs were being met. Students also provided emotional support, health education and resources during calls.

Student learning was enhanced by working with referring partners and agencies to assist with their clients' basic needs. These community relationships provided students with experience in interdisciplinary collaboration and creative problem-solving. In addition, these interactions provided exposure to the strong work being done for the population health of Polk and Marion counties.

As a result of this positive and impactful work, clients received weekly food delivery through Fostering Hope, funding for medical devices and options for financial assistance with utility costs through the Service Integration Team and information on picking school supplies for family members through the Dallas School District. In addition, students advocated for their client's housing needs.

I-CAN student, Paige Merritt, reflects on her experience this term:

"I appreciated the opportunity to connect with clients through I-CAN, particularly during a pandemic. Having reliable contact with health care providers is particularly important during times of uncertainty and fear. Though our efforts were curtailed by circumstances, it was meaningful to hear how people were doing and to offer them our support through regular phone calls."

We are grateful for our referring partners and our clients in Polk and Marion counties who contributed to I-CAN students' Population Health Practice clinical experiences this term. A special thanks to Brent DeMoe, FCO Director and Patti Warkentin, Clinical Assistant Professor at OHSU School of Nursing Monmouth for their guidance and support.

Request an Inperson Appointment with DMV

by ODOT June 1, 2020

SALEM – ODOT has developed a web-based request form for limited in-person services at DMV field offices. The form will temporarily replace a phone scheduling process that was overwhelmed by more than 18,000 calls in one hour on Monday. DMV normally gets about 8,000 in a day.

The new form will be in place at 8 a.m. Wednesday, June 3, or sometime Tuesday afternoon.

When it is available at www.OregonDMV.com, a simple tool will ask you a short series of questions to determine whether you can do your business online or need an in-person visit. If you qualify, you can fill out a form with your name and contact information. A DMV agent will contact you to schedule the in-person appointment. Please remember, once you submit the online form it will take some time for DMV to respond to the historically high demand.

“We apologize for the wait Oregonians have already endured due to the COVID-19 crisis, and the wait ahead as we begin working the pent up demand,” DMV Administrator Tom McClellan said. “We don’t know how long it will take to catch up with a backlog this huge, but we think it will take months especially with health and safety protocols in place. Please continue to see if you can get what you need online or by mail, and please be patient.”

The new web-based form to request an appointment, plus an online index of services that can be done by mail, not just online, will make it easier for you to do business with us from home. We’re also expanding our call center capacity.

As of Wednesday, only these services will be available at about two-thirds of DMV’s offices by appointment:

- Driver licensing and ID cards – originals, renewals and replacements, including passenger car and commercial licenses, and instruction permits
- Driver knowledge tests
- Driving privilege reinstatements with a license issuance
- Disabled parking placards VIN inspections for new-to-Oregon vehicles previously titled elsewhere
- Farm endorsements

The law enforcement grace period for expired licenses, permits, and registration is still in effect.

As we begin offering in-person services we’ll closely monitor how quickly we’re able to work through the backlog and will work with law enforcement to determine when the grace period will end. For now, schedule an appointment only if absolutely necessary to leave appointment slots for priority transactions. We will provide ample notice and communication before the grace period is set to end.

There are now many services you can do online. Find out more at DMV2U.Oregon.gov or get forms and a mailing address at OregonDMV.com.

When you do visit a DMV office, expect to follow safe social distancing and other measures in place for customers and employees
