CAP supports survivors on their path to healing and educates the OHSU community on best practices when working with survivors

- 180 outreach and educational efforts resulting in 51,087 interactions with OHSU members
- 191 People participated in virtual trauma-informed yoga and art therapy sessions over the 2020 summer
- 855 People attended CAP’s first 5 webinars in the 2020 series that teaches best practices when working with culturally specific populations

CAP extended hotline services hours to 24-7 and created 5 regional hotlines to be responsive to the local needs at all OHSU campus locations. CAP advocates along with community partner advocates staff the lines: Call to Safety in Portland, Marta’s House in Klamath Falls, Shelter from the Storm in La Grande, Sable House in Monmouth, and Community Works in Ashland.

Rising Voices

“I am alive today because of CAP. They saved my life.”

CAP advocates across the social-ecological spectrum to address all forms of violence at OHSU. Rising Voices is a new program at CAP aimed at amplifying the voices of those most impacted by discrimination, sexual misconduct, and violence. Rising Voices works to identify and advocate for the implementation of organizational and policy changes to stop and prevent violence and ensures members experiencing these harms feel safe and supported. In 2020, 25 policy recommendations were provided to OHSU Administration and the Policy Advisory Committee by CAP Advocates, Volunteers, and members of Rising Voices.
