Our Lead Facilitator

Dr. Clarke serves as the seminar moderator, calling on the expertise of invited colleagues and audience members to explore current ethical dilemmas. Dr. Clarke is President of the Psychophysiological Disorders Association, an Assistant Director at the Oregon Health & Science University (OHSU) Center for Ethics in Health Care, and Clinical Assistant Professor of Gastroenterology Emeritus at OHSU. Additionally, Dr. Clarke is Associate Faculty at Arizona State University, Clinical Advisor to the Stress Illness Recovery Practitioners Association (U.K.) and a Clinical Lecturer with Pacific University in Oregon.

Seminar Details

In the 20th Century, French philosopher Simone de Beauvoir recognized that "a man is defined as a human being and a woman as a female – whenever she behaves as a human being she is said to imitate the male." Older people can also experience, consciously or unconsciously, a similar questioning of their capabilities. For health professionals, are these issues still relevant in the 21st century? You might be surprised by what our expert panelists have to say.

The OHSU Center for Ethics in Health Care is proud to sponsor this seminar.
