Introduction

Hello and welcome to the Behavioral and Systems Neuroscience (BSN) Program at OHSU! A group of current students recognized that transitioning to graduate school and moving to a new city is a stressful and overwhelming experience, so we decided to create the handbook we would have appreciated when we started at OHSU. This handbook is divided into 2 sections, (1) practical information and contacts for important people, and (2) suggestions of recreational activities available around the Portland metro area. Pictures and suggestions for fun things to do around Portland were collected from current students and post docs. We hope this can become a living document that is routinely updated with what you think is important for new students to know about the program, OHSU, and general life in Portland.

Sincerely,
Student Handbook Committee (aka, Project Mullet):

Key People and Their Roles in BEHN

Josh Merrick (he/him)
Program Technician (BEHN, Psychiatry)
“Students should come talk to me if/when they have questions about or issues with supply purchasing (including computers and software), reimbursements, key requests, email listservs, website edits, campus resources, or help finding the right person or place to go for help.”

Kris Thomason (she/her, we/us)
Department Administrator (BEHN)
“Students should come talk to me if/when they have questions about anything. I may not have an answer right away but can likely direct you to someone who does. More specifically, I work with the departmental budget, faculty, and staff.”

Marina Guzzetti (she/her)
Professor, Program Director (BEHN, VA)
“Students should come talk to me if/when they have questions about or issues with graduate program policy or mentorship and interactions with faculty. Students are also welcome to come see me with suggestions on how to improve the program.”

Nicole Ernst (she/her) and Laura Young (she/her)
Senior Grants & Contracts Coordinators (BEHN, Psychiatry)
“Students should come talk to us if/when they plan to submit a grant application or have questions about or issues with grants and awards (applications, award set-up, progress reports). Each faculty member is assigned to either of us as their primary GCC, and trainees work with the GCC assigned to their mentor, so your mentor should be able to tell you which GCC to contact. When in doubt, you may always contact both, and one will get back to you.”

Tamara Phillips-Richards (she/her)
Professor, Interim Department Chair (BEHN, VA)
“Students should come talk to me if/when they have questions about or issues with departmental policy or obtaining answers or issue resolution from other appropriate resources.”
Key People and Their Role at West Campus

Kathleen A. Grant, Ph.D.
Chief, Division of Neuroscience (Oregon National Primate Research Center)
Kathleen (Kathy) Grant’s scientific interests are in animal models of addiction, particularly alcoholism. Her studies in non-human primates are aimed at understanding the co-morbidity of stress and excessive alcohol drinking examining risk factors such genetics, in utero exposure, adolescent vulnerability, sex differences and menstrual cycle effects, brain adaptations and cognitive impairments.

Tips from Students

1. “Portland is equal distance from the beach and mountains, get out of town. Take a train somewhere. Do a hike. Get outside the weird bubble!”

2. “Public transit is great! There are buses, light rails, and street cars. Keep in mind it’s not 24 hours though, for some reason I didn’t realize this and almost missed the last bus home…”

3. “A lot of breakfast places close at 2 or 3 in the afternoon. The Original Hotcakes House is open 24/7 though.”
