ABOUT OUR SPEAKER

Mary E. Wood, PhD is a Professor of English at the University of Oregon. Her interests include medical and health humanities, 19th- and 20th-century American literatures, disability studies, science and literature, archival studies, and queer studies. She also has an interest in digital humanities and continues to learn more about the possibilities of this exciting field.

She has written several articles as well as two books on literature and mental health and illness: The Writing on the Wall (University of Illinois Press 1994) and Life Writing and Schizophrenia: Encounters at the Edge of Meaning (Brill 2015). She loves to research, think and write collaboratively across disciplines and national boundaries, as evidenced by her contribution to the newly released collection Madness and Literature: What Fiction Can Do for the Understanding of Mental Illness (ed. Lasse Raaby Gammelgaard, University of Exeter Press, 2022).

OBHC IS HOSTED BY THE OHSU CENTER FOR ETHICS IN HEALTH CARE.
