Registration Completed October 12, 2022	Multicultural Medical Student Association	As the Multicultural Medical Student Association, our mission is to celebrate and share the diverse and intersectional cultures (and perspectives) that we all bring into medicine. Culture in this context extends beyond race/ethnicity, but also to things like growing up in a rural area, being a parent, identifying as LGBTQ, coming from an immigrant background, and many more identities and experiences. Through our discussions and events, we will learn about multiple cultures and hopefully stimulate discussions that lead to self-reflection and growth in all participants. We aim to move away from placing people into labels/molds and, as a group, will work towards actively unlearning the practice of making assumptions of others based on superficial things and limited information. We really want to elevate and amplify other people's stories and voices and would love suggestions from everyone. The preliminary outline for the group is to host discussions -- some with just our group members and others with those outside of medicine as well (because the point of this group is to not get pigeon-holed). We also hope to one day host in-person events such as a potluck with foods from different cultures.
