Support before, during and after treatment

SUPPORT SERVICES Social work services

- Information and education
- Services, such as rides or help at home
- Counseling for you or your family
- Support groups
- And more

Social workers can support you during and after your cancer treatment. They can help you find information, help and services for yourself and your family. These include:

Many things go into being well, or in good health. Each of these things is important, and they are all connected.

During cancer treatment, your mental, spiritual, social and emotional health are as important as your physical health.

Support for your body, mind and spirit

SUPPORT SERVICES Our Palliative Care clinic

OHSU has a specific clinic to help you feel as well as possible during treatment. This is called our Palliative Care Clinic. It helps with:

- Pain and other physical problems
- Understanding your diagnosis
- Planning your care

• Setting goals for your health, treatment or personal life

SUPPORT SERVICES Our Palliative Care clinic

You can use the Palliative Care Clinic any time during treatment. Talk with your doctor, nurse, social worker or other staff member about making an appointment.

have cancer. For example, you might:

- Feel shocked and overwhelmed
- Feel pressured to do something right away
- Think "this can't be happening to me"
- Feel like you are in a bad dream
- Have trouble thinking or paying attention

You will probably feel many emotions when you learn you

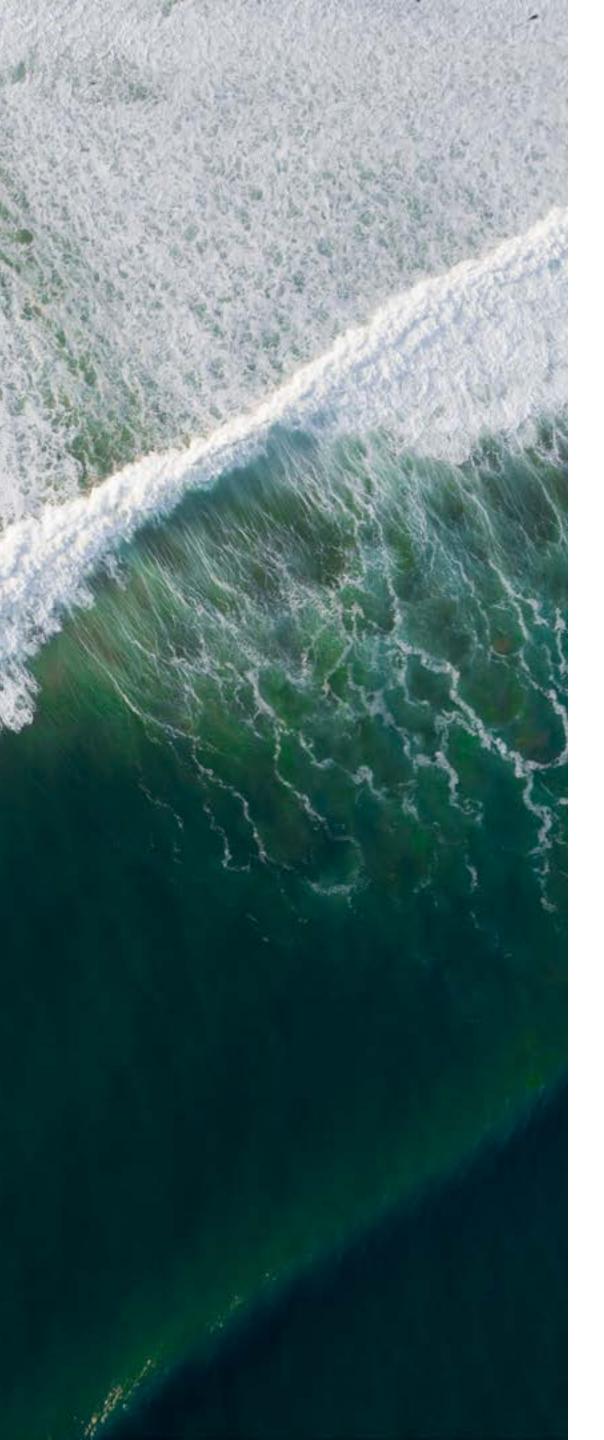

What can I do? You can: • Talk about your feelings • Tell other people what you are going through • Figure out what you do have control over • Know you will feel less overwhelmed as time goes by

- Dying
- Losing your independence
- The treatment not working, or cancer coming back later • Side effects from treatment
- Changes in your life, routine and relationships

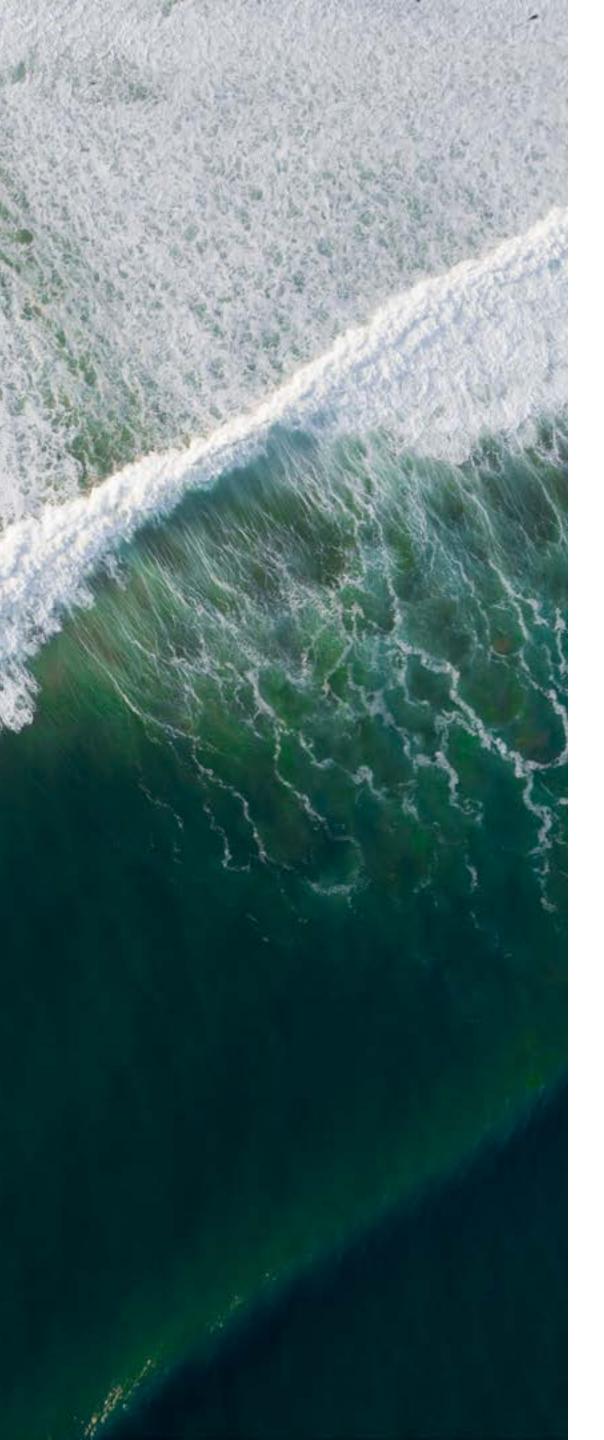

You might feel afraid of the following things. These are all normal when you learn you have cancer.

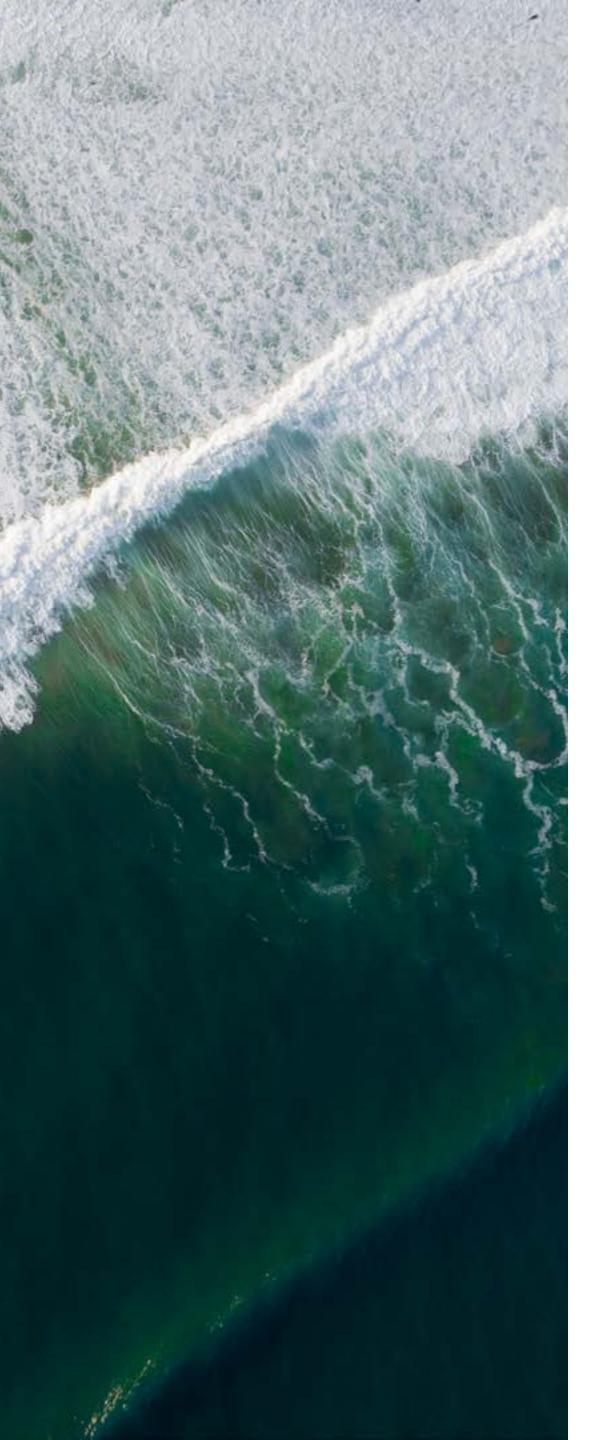

For example, you might notice:

- A fast heartbeat or racing thoughts
- Feeling "on-edge" nervous or restless feelings
- Trouble sleeping
- Less interest in doing things, even activities you enjoy

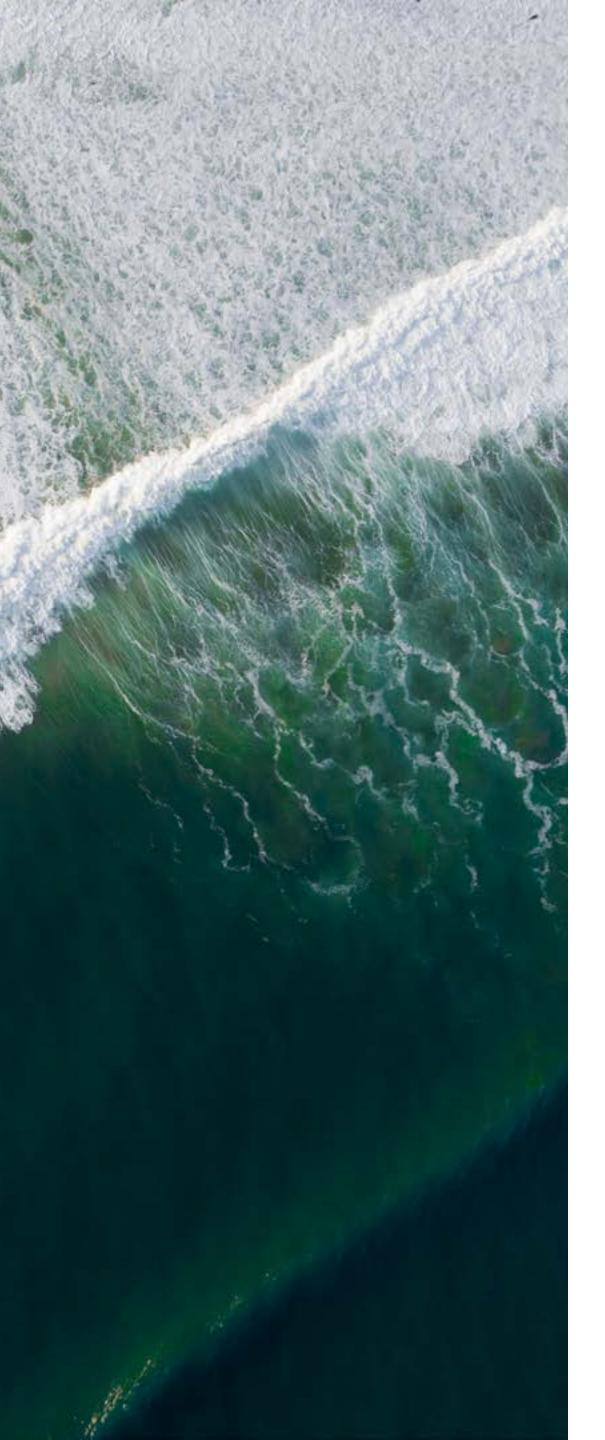

You may also feel anxious or depressed.

- Trouble dealing with your daily routine • Sadness or depression
- Thoughts about hurting yourself

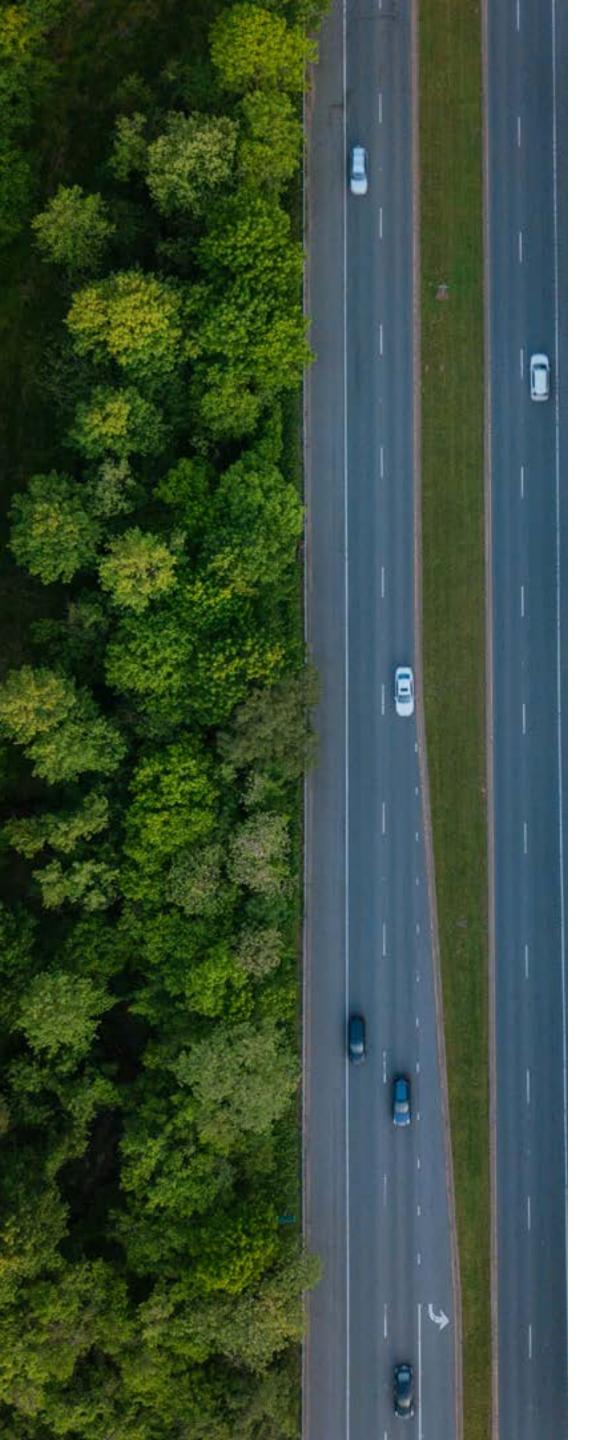

Feelings of anxiety and depression are normal and can happen because you are feeling more stress. Uncertainty and not knowing what will happen or changes in your regular routine can make this worse.

What can I do? You can:

- Talk with a social worker about how to handle your thoughts and cope with daily activities.
- Ask your care team about other resources, such as acupuncture.

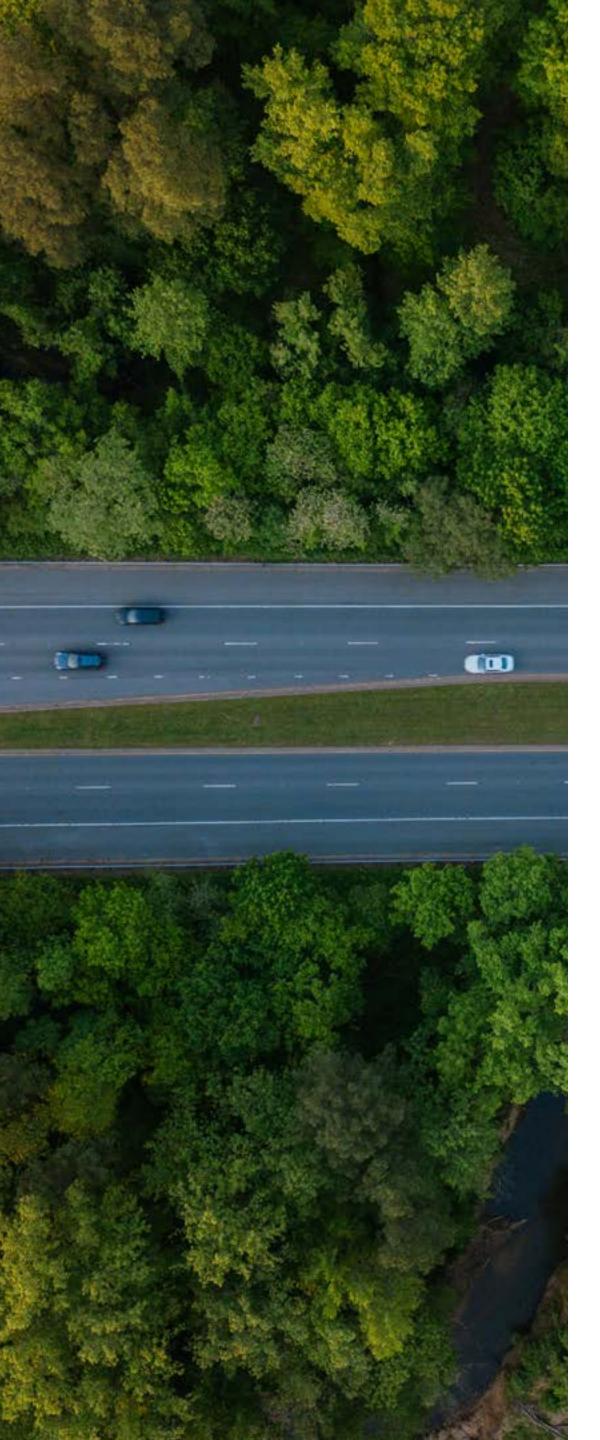

• Talk with your doctor about taking medication.

They might:

- Not know what to say or do
- Say or do things that are not appropriate or helpful • Share their own feelings about your cancer – this might
- be hard for you to cope with.

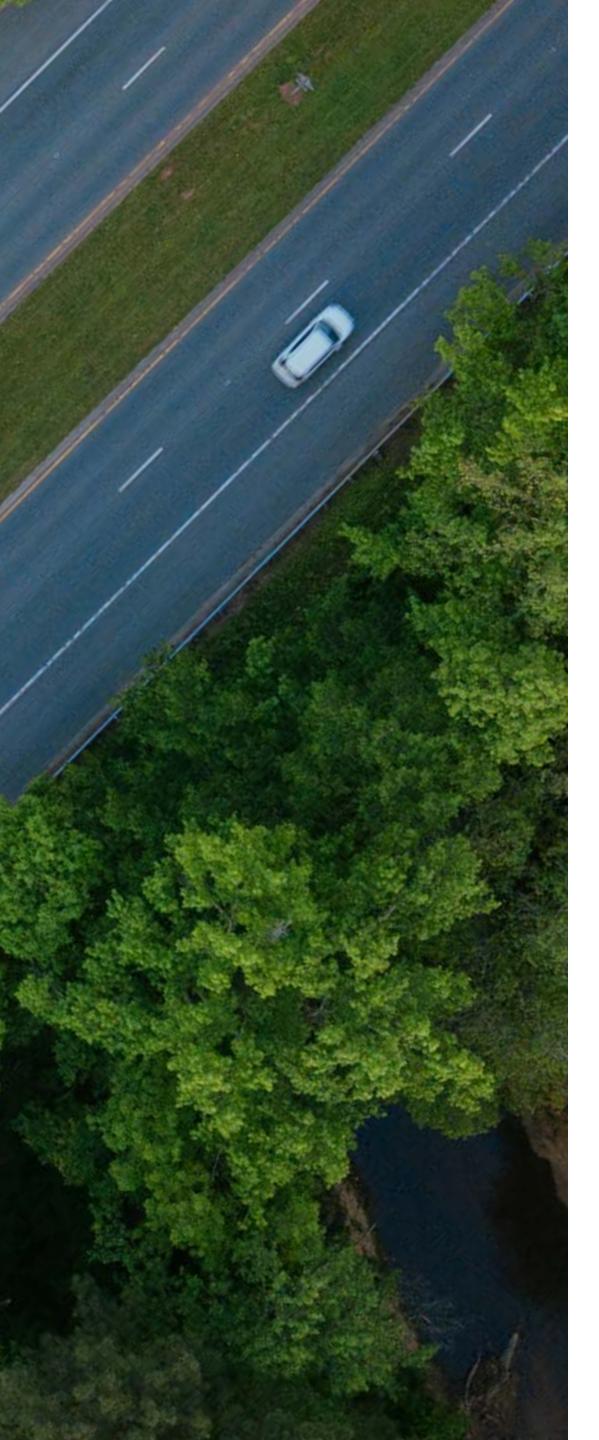

Cancer can affect how other people act around you.

You might notice that:

- Family and friends act in new ways or do new things
- People act differently around you
- Some friends seem to go away
- Some friends get closer or do more

Cancer can also change your relationships with other people.

What can I do about relationship changes? Talk about how you feel

- you do not feel comfortable doing it

• Tell friends and family what would help and what you need • Ask a friend or family member to talk with other people, if

You might notice:

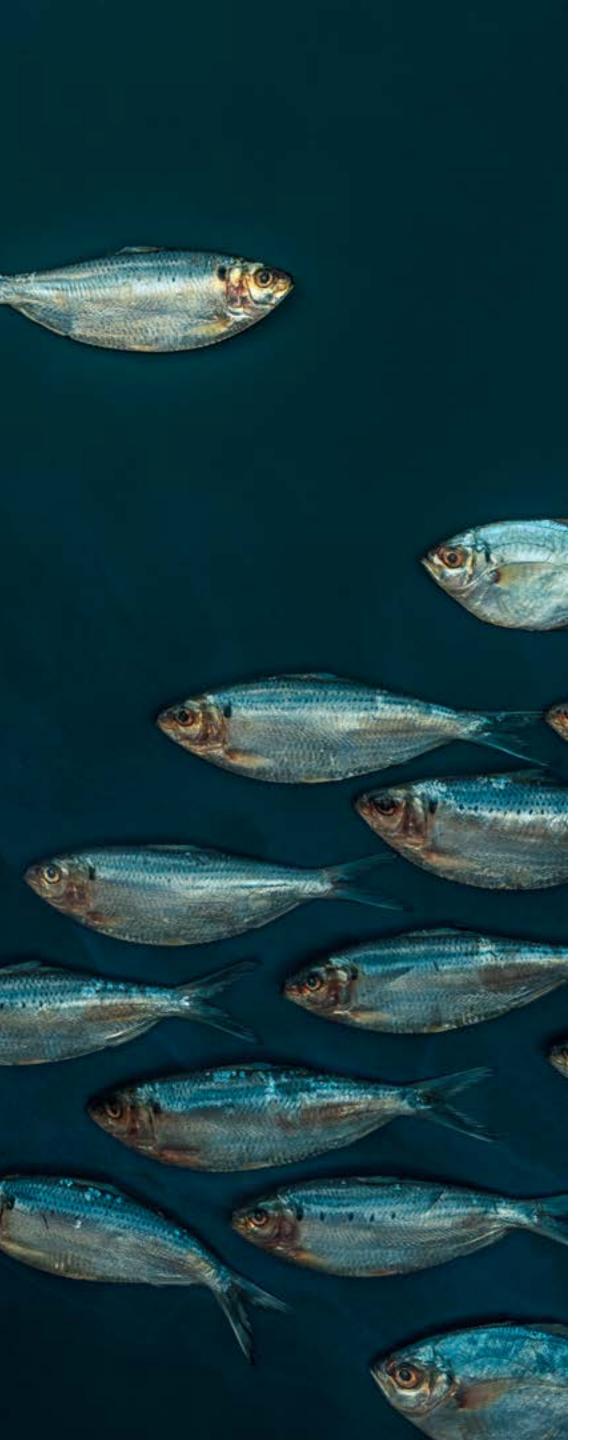

- might avoid you.
- Difficulty doing your job or staying the whole day • You have to work less, or cannot work Your employer might give you support, or they might not.

- Having cancer can change things at work.
- Changes in the way other people treat you some people

What can I do about changes at work? any changes at work.

Talk with your family, friends and social worker about

You can ask about:

- Family Medical Leave This is time off the law gives you when you or a family member is sick.
- because of a health problem.
- Sick leave Another type of time off when you are sick. • Disability – This is insurance that pays if you cannot work

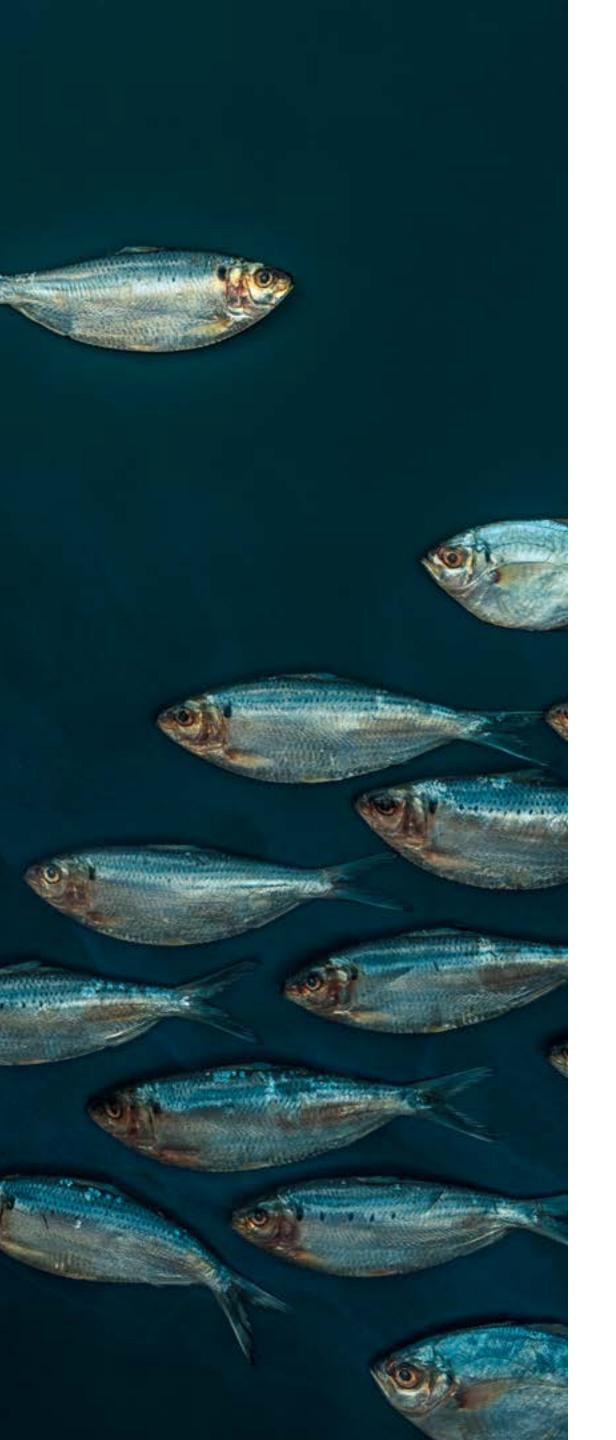

Talk with the human resources department at work.

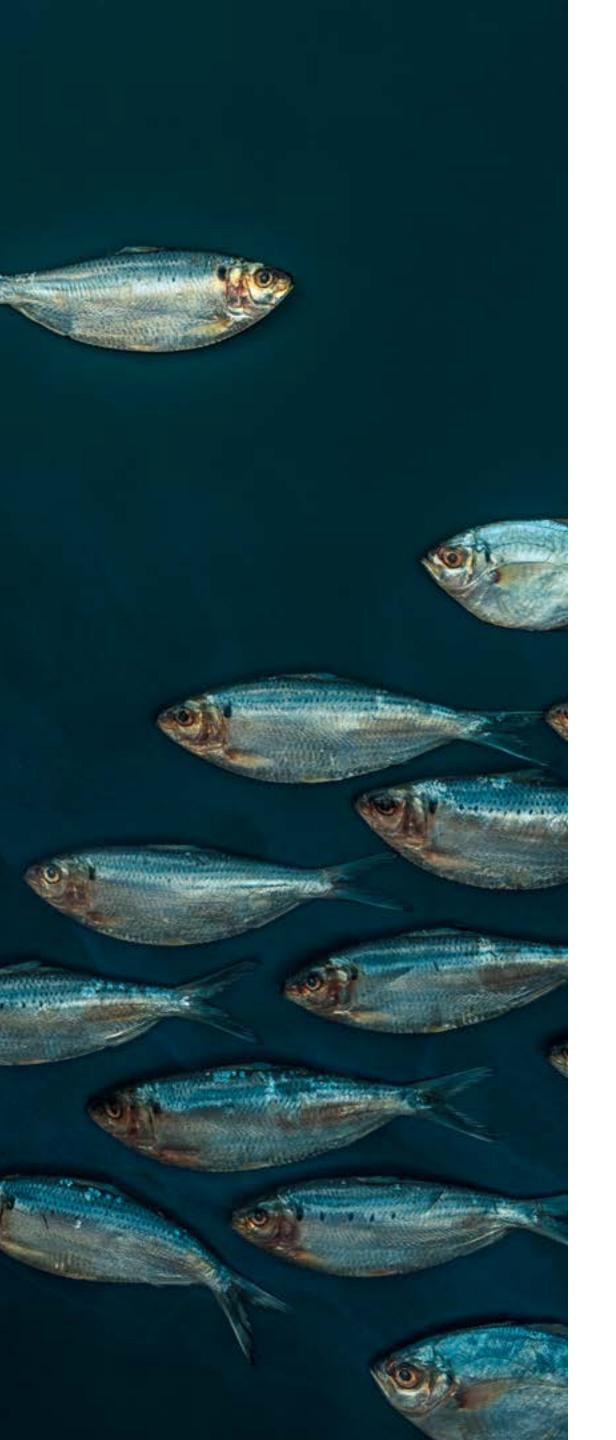

your appointments.

Your health insurance and other benefits

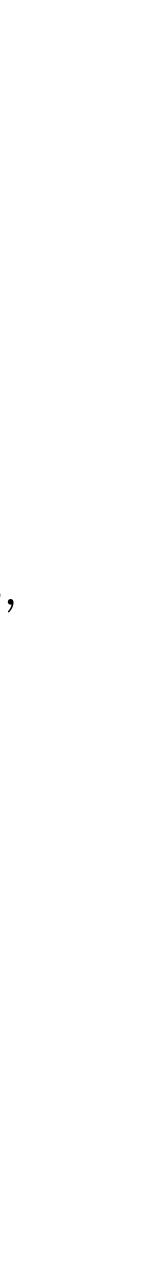

- Your doctor will probably need to fill out papers with
- information on your health. You can bring the papers to

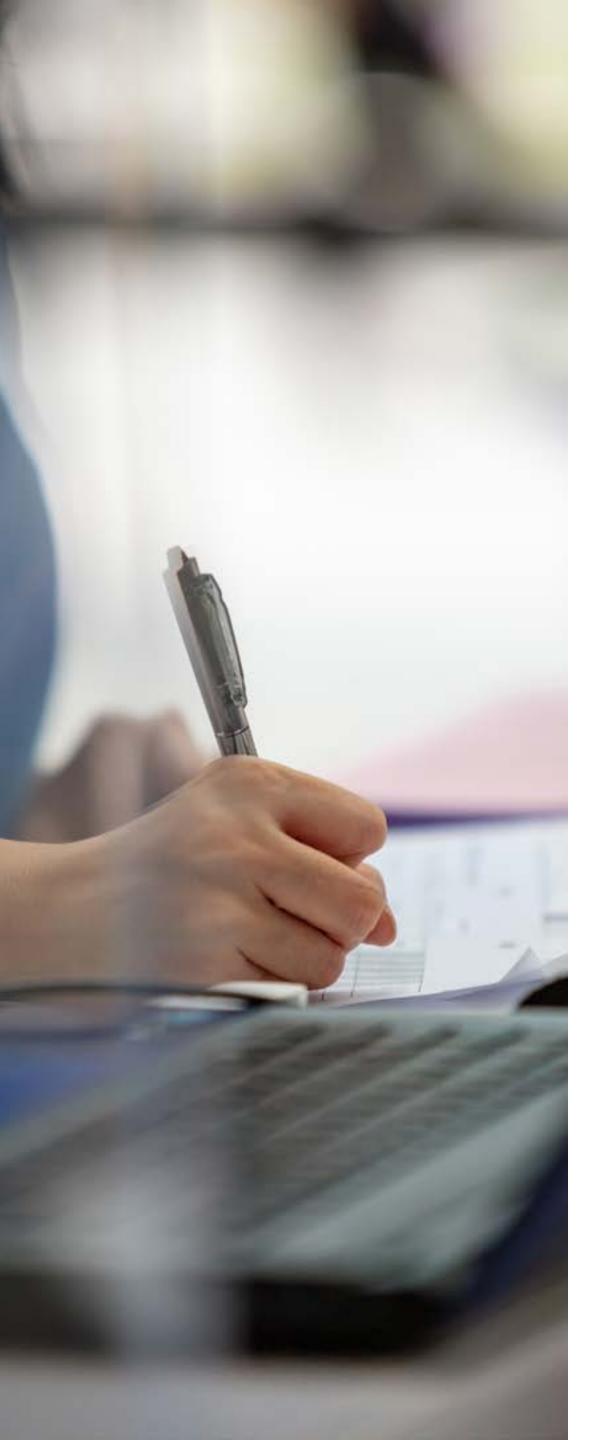

You may get a credit on your taxes for the money you spend on cancer treatment. This is sometimes called a "deduction" or "write-off." It means the government does not ask you to pay taxes on the money.

Keep all the receipts for your cancer treatment. This includes supplies, medications, the cost of traveling to your appointments, and more. You may also want to talk with an accountant who does taxes.

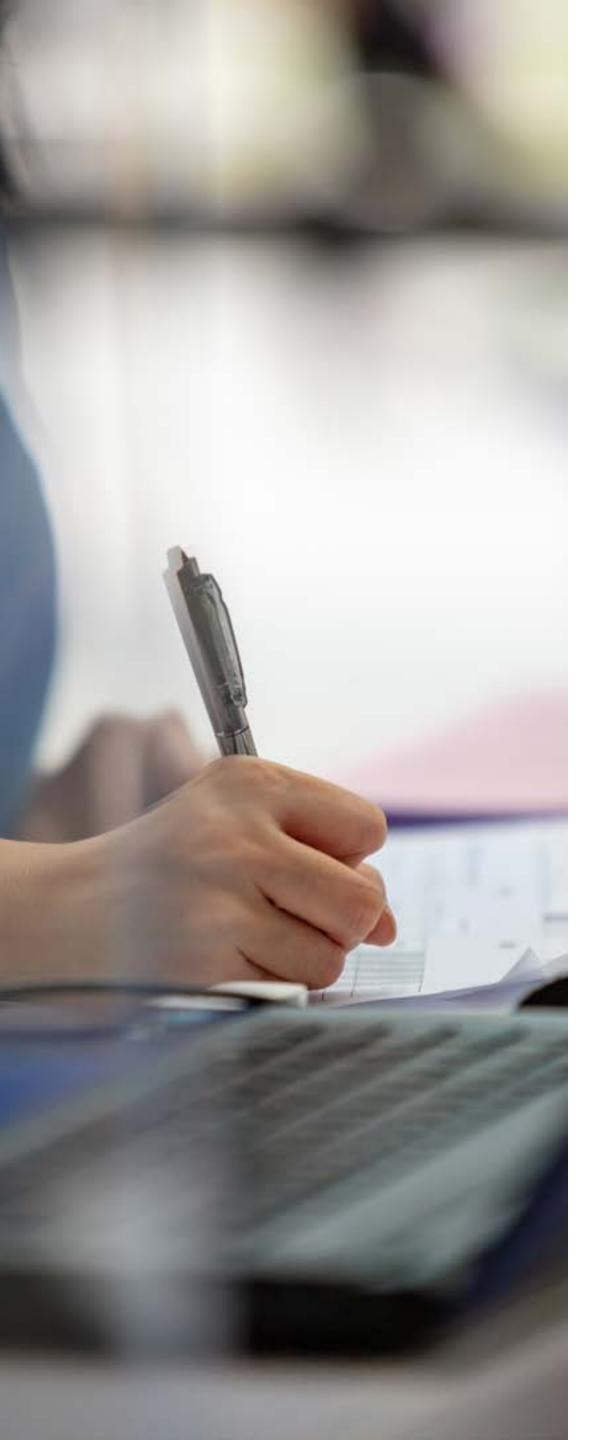

SUPPORT SERVICES Financial counseling

A financial counselor can help you understand the cost of treatment and find ways to pay. You can talk with a financial counselor here at OHSU. They can:

- for treatment

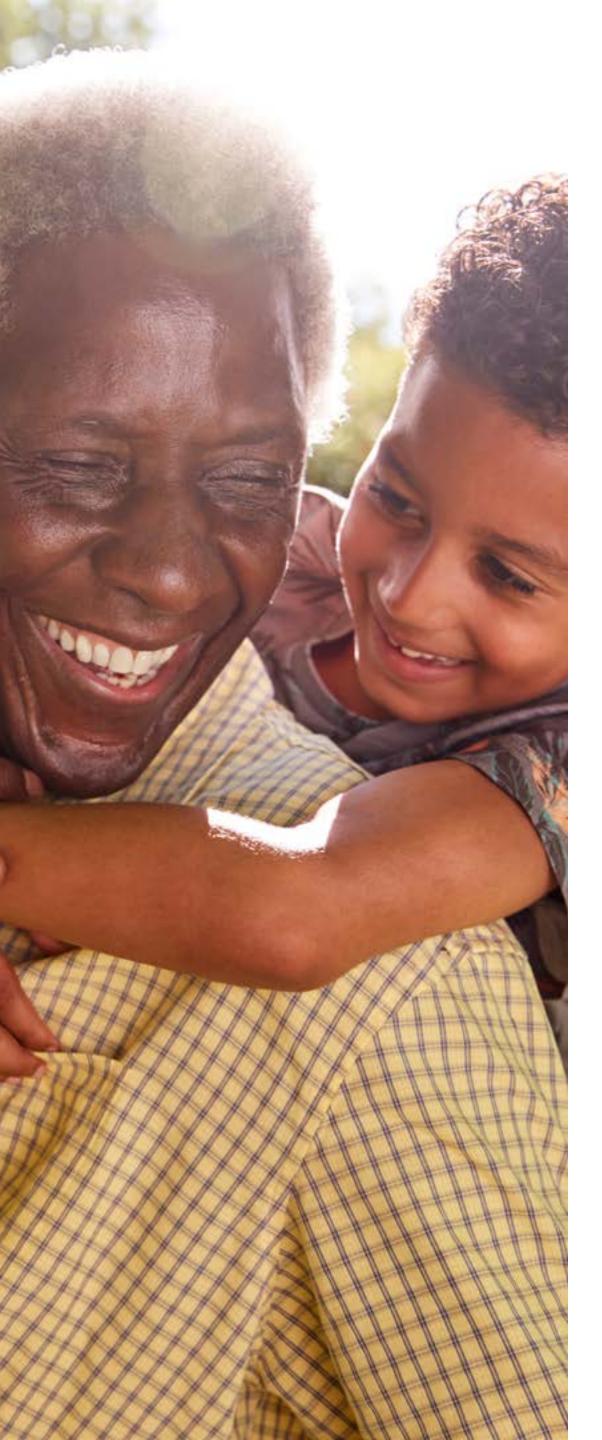

• Help you learn what your health insurance will pay

• Help you find ways to pay, if you do not have insurance • Find ways to pay other than insurance

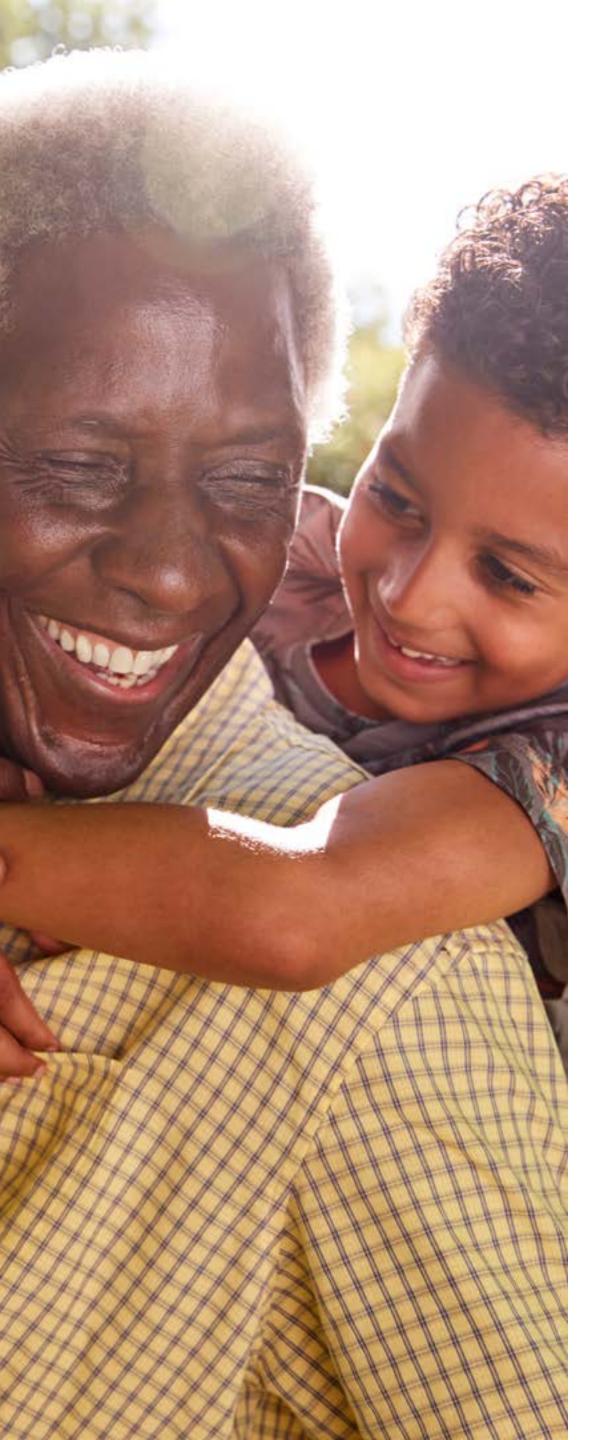

support services Financial counseling

If you need financial counseling, please call us at 503-494-6842 or email oncfc@ohsu.edu.

SUPPORT SERVICES Advance Directive

An advance directive is a document that says what your health care choices are if you are not able to talk for yourself. It also says who can make choices if you are too sick to do this. It is important because we want to know what is important to you and give you the treatment you want. It is important for us to know your values and we want to honor your wishes.

SUPPORT SERVICES Advance Directive

If you already have an advance directive, please bring us a copy. If not, consider making (or completing) one. We can keep a copy with your records.

You can choose someone to handle bills and money for you if you cannot do it. The legal term for this is "power of attorney." A lawyer, or attorney, helps you write instructions for what the person can do.

Giving someone financial power of attorney

You are in charge of what the person can do with your power of attorney. They can do as much or as little as you decide. This can include:

- Paying your personal bills
- Paying medical bills
- Paying your taxes

SUPPORT SERVICES Rehabilitation

A therapist can help you with:

- Being very tired (fatigue)
- Problems moving around or keeping your balance
- Numbness and tingling in your hands, feet and sometimes other places (peripheral neuropathy)

Physical therapy, speech therapy and occupational therapy can all help you deal with cancer and treatment.

SUPPORT SERVICES Rehabilitation

- Muscle pain and weakness

A therapist can also create a personal exercise program for you.

• Confusion and difficulty thinking (chemo brain) • Swelling around your arms (lymphedema)

support services Acupuncture

Acupuncture is a treatment that uses tiny needles to help energy move around your body. The person who does it puts needles in specific places to help certain problems. You can have acupuncture at any time during treatment, or after treatment. It can help with cancer symptoms and the side effects from treatment.

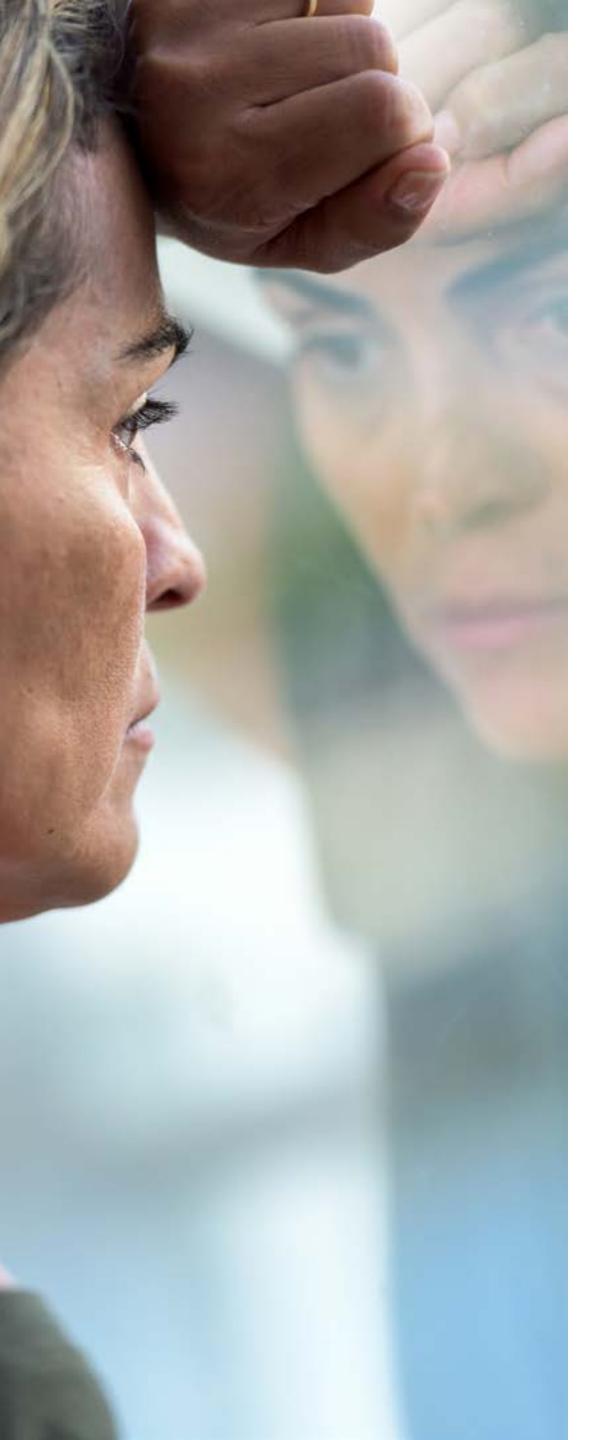

SUPPORT SERVICES Acupuncture

Acupuncture can help with these side effects of cancer treatment.

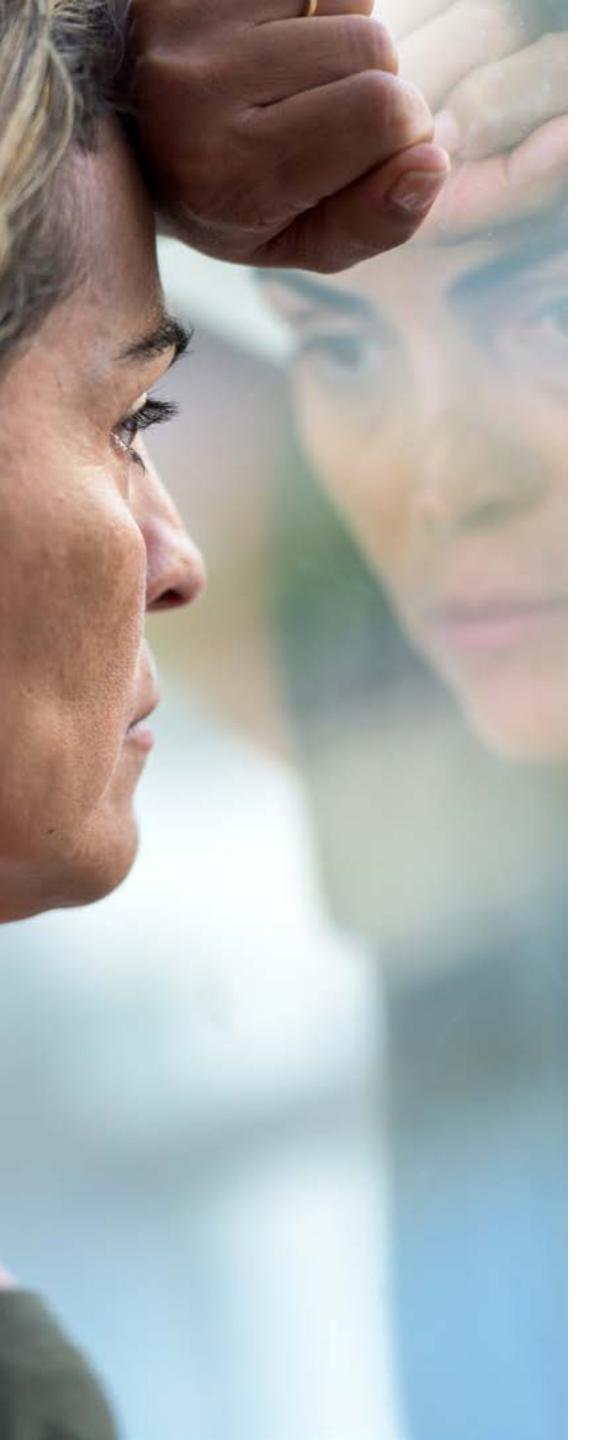

- Nausea and vomiting
- Constipation, diarrhea and other digestion problems
- Sleep problems and tiredness (fatigue)
- Anxiety and depression

- Hot flashes and dry mouth
- Numbness and tingling in your hands and feet (peripheral neuropathy)
- Pain

Tiredness and changing emotions are the most common problems during cancer treatment. You will probably have both of these side effects at times. Expect your emotions to go from happy or OK, to sad or angry, sometimes quickly. Also expect to be more tired than usual.

What are you most likely to need support for?

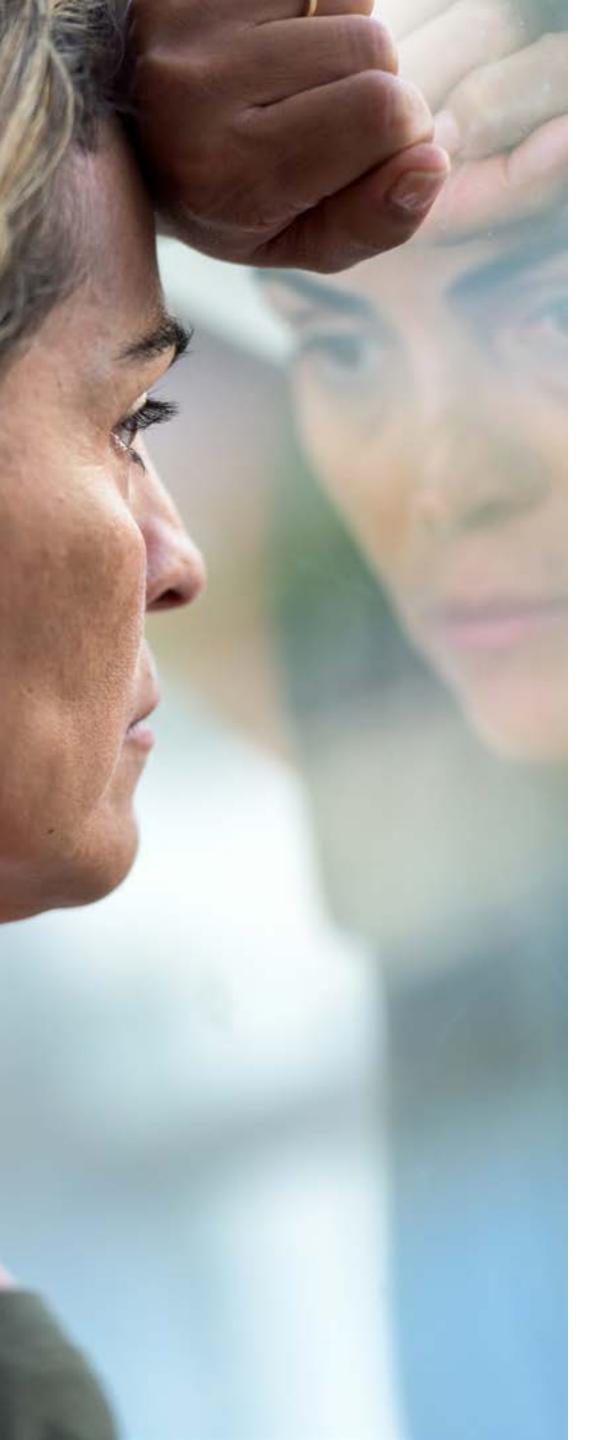

SUPPORT SERVICES About changing emotions

You can go through many emotions because of the medications you take, changes in your hormone levels and the stress of treatment. Normal emotions are:

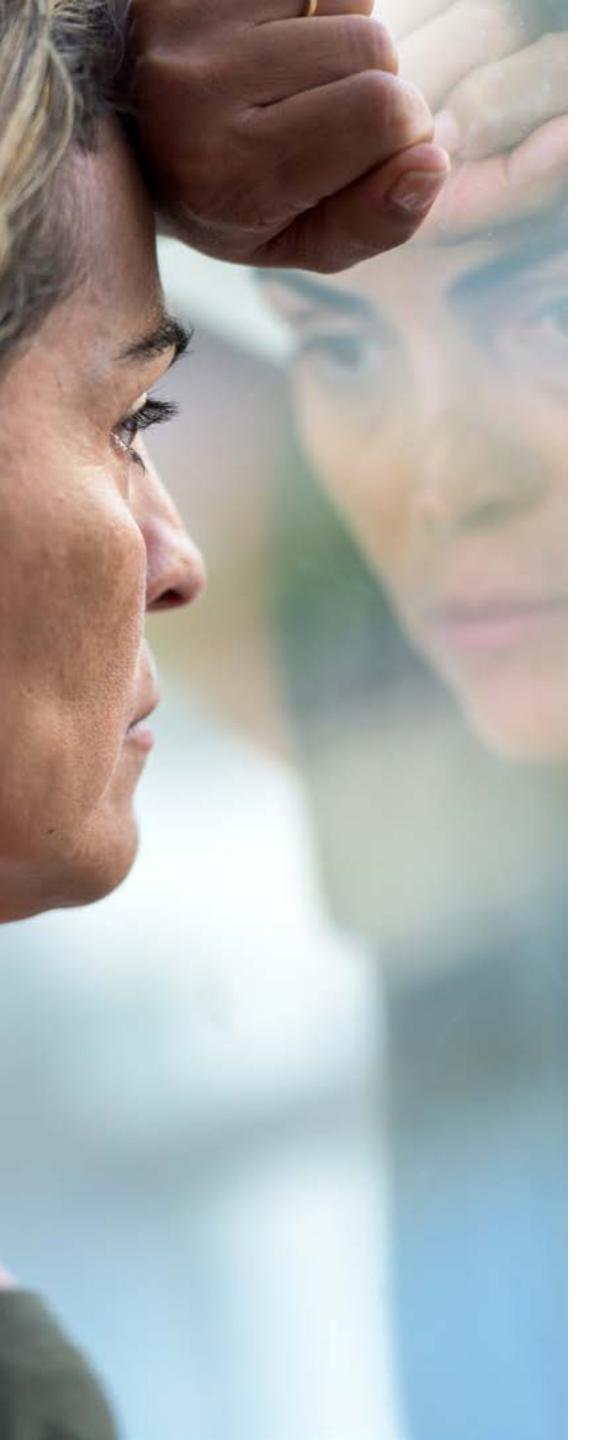

- Depression
- Anxiety
- Anger

- Fear of the future (apprehension)
- Feeling stressed

SUPPORT SERVICES About changing emotions

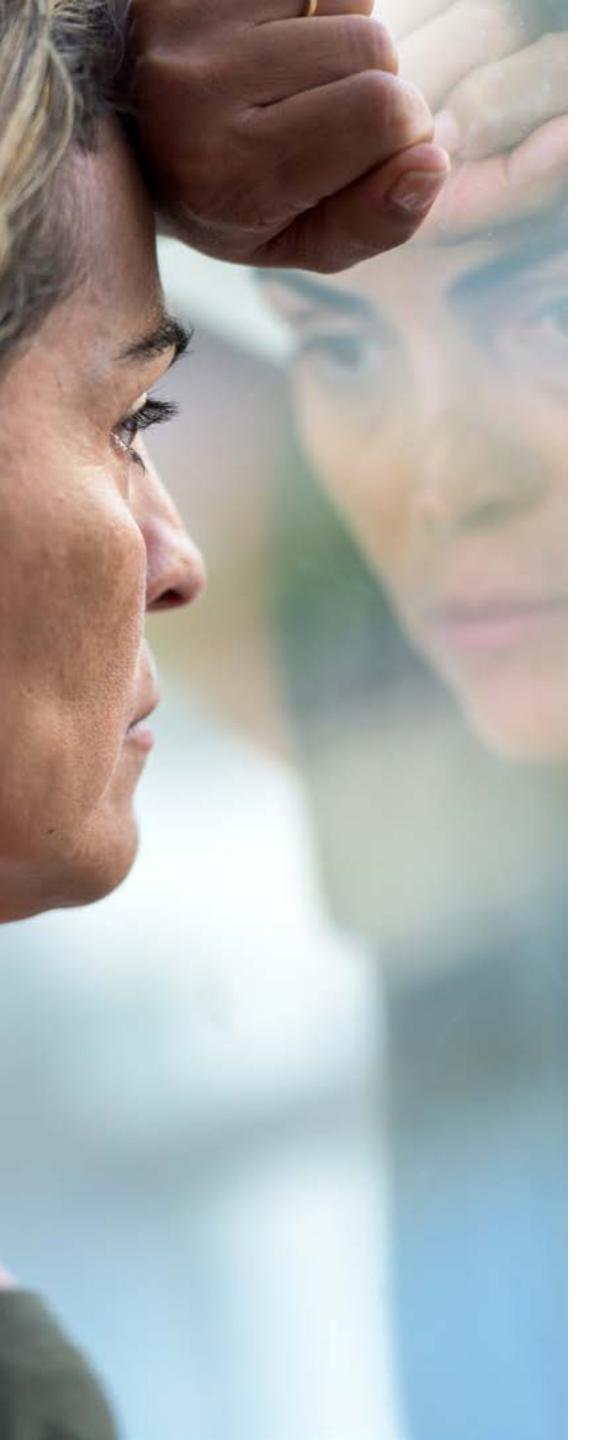

You can always talk with your doctor, nurse, social worker or someone else on our team about this. Talking with family and friends can help. But you may want to be strong or avoid scaring them. Our team can help, because we see people go through these emotions so often.

Cancer and treatment can change the way you look and feel about yourself. The changes may include:

- Losing your hair
- Gaining or losing weight
- Swelling in certain areas
- A scar, or a change in a body part after surgery
- Looking pale

About changes to your body

SUPPORT SERVICES Sleep problems

Cancer and treatment can cause problems sleeping. Try to create a relaxing bedtime routine. You can also talk with your doctor about medication that may help you sleep.

- Stress

- Changes in your body and body image • Treatment – you may not feel well • Not being sure sexual activity is safe
- Pain or discomfort

You may be less interested in sex during cancer treatment. This is normal for many people. The reasons include:

If you are concerned about sex and intimacy, you can: • Talk with someone on your health care team that you feel comfortable talking to about sex.

- Talk with your partner about how you feel.

- stop treatment.

Chemotherapy drugs can be dangerous for your partner. They can also harm the fetus if you get pregnant. We recommend: • Using condoms or other birth control with a physical barrier while you are having chemo. These types of birth control keep chemo drugs out of your partner's body. • Using a physical barrier method for 1 to 3 months after you

Your doctor might want you to use birth control for 6 to 24 months after treatment ends. This can help prevent pregnancy. Getting pregnant soon after chemo can harm the fetus. Ask your doctor what is right for you. Let them know if you have questions or concerns about birth control.

You need to be healthy enough to have sex during cancer and treatment. This means your platelet count should be more than 50,000. Your ANC should be more than 1000. Use lubricant that dissolves in water (water based). Do not use any lubricant that has perfume or coloring in it.

treatment include:

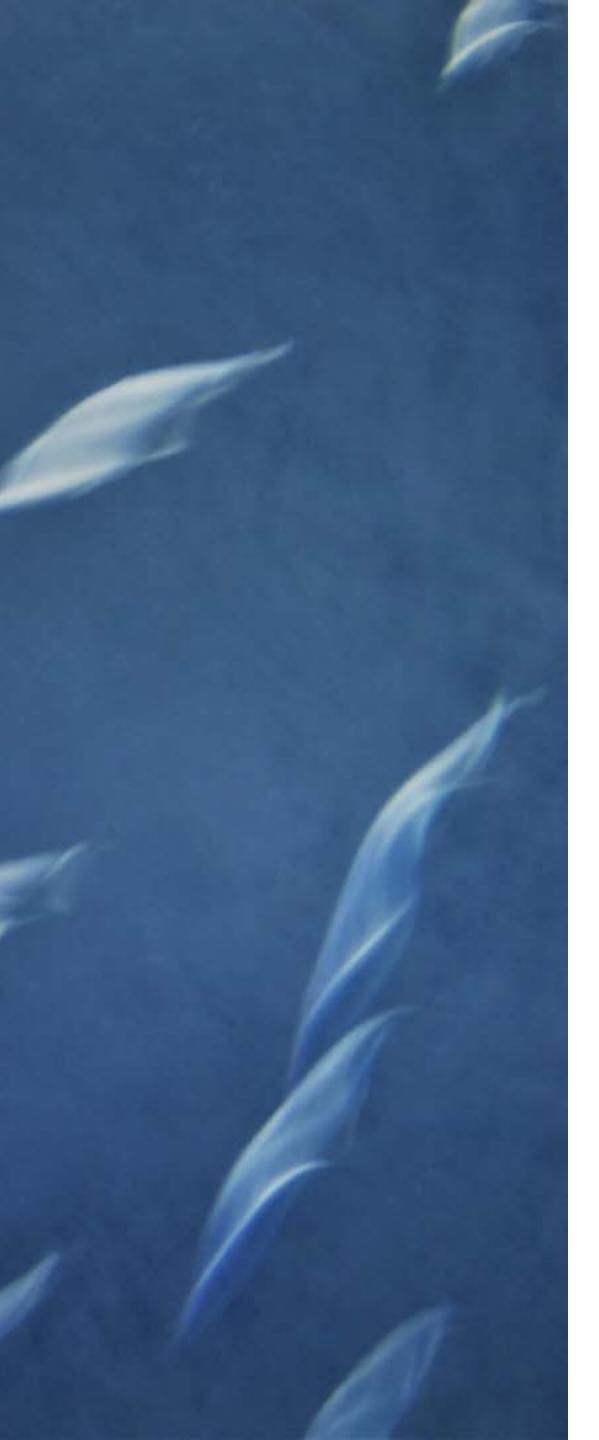

- Doing relaxation exercises or activities that help your mind and body, such as yoga or meditation.
- Getting support from family and friends
- Talking with a counselor
- Asking a social worker to help
