Decolonizing Data: Reclaiming Culture. Building Beauty.

Abigail Echo-Hawk, M.A.
Urban Indian Health Institute Director

Thursday, Jan. 24
5:30 p.m. - 7:30 p.m.
Robertson Life Sciences Building, 25060
2730 S.W. Moody Ave.
Portland, OR 97201

Indigenous Leadership: Decolonizing Social Justice-Equity Work

Native American Health Seminar

Abigail Echo-Hawk, MA is an enrolled member of the Kitkehahki band of the Pawnee Nation of Oklahoma. She is also a member of the Upper Athabaskan people of Mentasta Village, Alaska. She was born in the heart of Alaska where she was raised in the traditional values of giving, respect for all and love. She is a graduate of the University of Washington with a Bachelor of Arts in American Studies and Minor in Human Rights, and a Master of Arts in Policy Studies. She previously served as the Co-Director and Tribal Liaison for Partnerships for Native Health at Washington State University-Spokane. In this role she oversaw the implementation and dissemination of 24 NIH funded grants with topics ranging from suicide prevention, cancer, cardiovascular disease, diabetes and more. Ms. Echo-Hawk focuses on policy advocacy in areas such as: maternal and child health, domestic violence, sexual assault, youth prostitution and educational disparities. Her greatest accomplishment however, is her place within her extended family. She is a wife, a mother, an auntie, a daughter, a granddaughter, a friend and a community member. Abigail strives to serve them with love and to be a small part of ensuring a great future for the next generations.

Youth, Community, Students, Faculty, Service Providers-All are invited to attend!