Getting to Health Equity: A Dialogue with Students

David R. Williams, Ph.D., M.P.H.
Harvard University

This special opportunity to dialogue with Dr. David R. Williams, renowned Harvard sociologist and scholar in the social determinants of health, is open to all OHSU/PSU/OSU health professions students as well as to faculty and staff.

Dr. Williams will share his work and students across schools will share their work on the annual Health Equity Fair, the student-run Bridges Collaborative Care Clinic, the Structural Competency curriculum in the M.D. program, and related efforts. The event will be video recorded for later viewing. The link will be shared at www.ohsu.edu/health-equity.

This special student-focused event is a precursor to Dr. Williams’ delivery of the Dr. DeNorval Unthank Lectureship in Health Equity at 7 p.m., Feb. 28, at Maranatha Church, 4222 N.E. 12th Ave., Portland, 97211, which is free and open to the public. No RSVP necessary.

The evening lecture, “Getting to Health Equity,” is a call to action for the health care community. It is made possible by the anchor gift to the OHSU Foundation of Drs. William and Nathalie Johnson and their organizations, Moda Health and Legacy Health, respectively, in partnership with OHSU.
