Defining Moments in Nursing Education
Ashland, Oregon

The nursing program continued to evolve throughout the 1980s offering associate and baccalaureate degrees on campus as well as outreach baccalaureate completion programs in Coos Bay and Roseburg. An outreach graduate program through Oregon Health Sciences University was available. The associate degree program closed in 1989.

In the mid 1980s, outreach to areas such as Coos Bay and Roseburg provided needed baccalaureate educational opportunities to RNs. Heather Young, a 1986 Coos Bay graduate, went on to become the founding Dean of the Betty Irene Moore School of Nursing at University of California at Davis.

The Associate Degree Program ran from the program inception in 1968 until the last graduating class (picture above) in 1989.

In the ten years from 1980-89 there were:
- 364 Associate Degree in Nursing graduates
- 241 Baccalaureate Degree in Nursing graduates
- 1067 nurses educated since 1968

Dr. Elizabeth Monninger was Director of the Nursing Program from 1987-1991 and became Dean of the School of Nursing and Health at Southern Oregon State College from 1991-92.

1988 Ashland Master's Outreach students - Central Hall Class of 1990

In the mid 1980s, outreach to areas such as Coos Bay and Roseburg provided needed baccalaureate educational opportunities to RNs. Heather Young, a 1986 Coos Bay graduate, went on to become the founding Dean of the Betty Irene Moore School of Nursing at University of California at Davis.